ON Saturday Charles Rose, a mutton butcher in Baltimore, asked James Lewis, a colored employe of another butcher, to carry some meat for him to his wagon. Lewis refused, alleging he had his own wagon to unload, whereupon Rose pursued him with a knife which he thrust into his groin, making a wound from which he died within a few hours.

Two negro prisoners, in the jail of Houston county, Ga., complained to the sheriff of the dirty condition of their cell, and told him if he would furnish them with a bucket of whitewash they would whitewash it. He complied with their request. The next visit he made to their cell, immediately on opening the door, the contents of the bucket were dashed into his face, which so blinded and disabled him as to enable the two negroes to make good their escape.

THE Madrid people are innocent. An elderly gentleman last week had his eyes suddenly covered in the streets by some one behind, who playfully said, "Who is it?" He went on guessing through the round of his friends, when the playful being behind darted off, and left the old gentleman of Spain still bewildered and thinking who it could be. He found out when he got home and missed a pocket-book which had 1,500 francs in it, also a gold repeater and handsome chain and seals.

SPANISH gentlemen speak with great enthusiasm of the handsome behavior, in a recent duel, of two naval officers of high rank, intimate friends, who had quarrelled over their cups. They fought twenty paces apart, to advance to a central line and fire at will. One walked forward, and when near the line the other fired and hit him. The wounded man staggered to the line and said, "I am dead. Come thou and be killed." The other came up until he touched the muzzle of his adversary's pistol, and in a moment both were dead—like gentlemen.

A MR. CLARKE, of Chico, Cal., while recently taking a drive with his wife in a buggy on a road near little Butte Creek, found that a drove of wild horses had completely surrounded them. One of these horses actually attacked the buggy, kicking it with his heels, while the others sought to make acquaintance with the horses of the buggy. Mr. Clarke struck the attacking horse with the whip, whereat the animal became terribly enraged, ran in front of the carriage horses, kicked them with vigor and viciousness, and was driven off with great difficulty.

COL. JOHN BROWNLOW, son of Senator Brownlow, writes from Washington to a friend in this city, under date of the 11th inst., as follows: "Father is steadily improving. Ever since his trip to New York he has been getting better. With improved health he is recovering his old buoyant spirits, and he is hopeful that no rebel will occupy his seat until after the 4th of March, 1875. Ex-Surgeon-General Hammond, whom he consulted in New York, gave a most favorable opinion of his case; said complete restoration to health was possible, and very great relief absolutely certain."

CHICAGO was a dangerous place on Friday. Timothy Quinn, aged fourteen, was drowned in the river by the upsetting of his boat. An unknown man had his right foot taken off by a passing train. A young man, also unknown, had both of his legs cut off by a train from which he jumped. Mrs. Hayes tried to cross a bridge as it was being turned, and was so squeezed between the bridge and the railing that her recovery is not looked for. Hermann Louscher lost his right arm by a splitting machine in a tannery. And Clarence Foster, aged 7 years, was run over and killed by a lumber wagon.

THE Philadelphia Ledger says the hull of the United states frigate Ironsides, which has been lying in the mud near League Island for several years past, was broken to pieces yesterday by means of a large torpedo, containing a charge of five hundred pounds of powder. The powder was placed in a large cask and fixed in position under the keel of the hull; a wire connecting with the torpedo, was connected with a battery on board of a barge near by. When the explosion took place, a column of water, estimated at about seventy feet in diameter was thrown to the height of fifty feet, presenting a very fine appearance. The hull was broken in a number of places, and left in the condition desired by the owner.

THE Maysville Bulletin says: The Underwood horse thieves undertook, last week, to kidnap, under pretense of legal process, some of the citizens of Fleming county, who were supposed to have been of the party who killed the horse thief, Hyatt, a short time since in Carter. They had forged bench warrants, and no doubt intended to take the Fleming citizens away from home by these pretended processes, that they might murder them. The people of the neighborhood rose and drove off the brigands, and will no doubt deal with them in a different way if they come again on any such errand. The civil authorities are powerless to reach the Underwoods and their confederates. No process can be served upon them. Indictments innumerable exist against them. Sheriffs are kept in terror, and dare not go into their neighborhood. They continue their outrages, plunder the country, commit murders, and cannot be brought to justice. The military power of the State alone can reach them, and we ask the attention of the Governor to these outlaws, and the condition of things existing in their neighborhood.

BEAVER.

Beaver, its Surroundings and Beauties--Dedication of the New Methodist Church--Reunion Feeling Among the Denominations--Beaver Female Seminary--Summer Home, etc.

This pleasant town, until within a few years, has improved very slowly, more attention being directed to contiguous places, Rochester, New Brighton and other towns. Improvements, however, of late, are quite numerous, and of a substantial character, and ere long its eligible location, beautiful scenery and excellent society will be appreciated worthy of its merits. Located near the mouth of the Beaver river where it enters the Ohio, on a high bluff, and an hour's ride from Pittsburgh by trains running both ways frequently each day, it becomes almost a suburban town of the Smoky city. Quite a number of persons residing in the bevy of towns around Beaver, do business in Pittsburgh, and the number is likely to increase rapidly. Its beautiful location, intelligent society, healthful atmosphere, and excellent moral tone, has led many wealthy persons to locate here and enjoy its quiet and advantages, as a home residence.

Sunday last the people were all agog on the occasion of the dedication of the lecture room of the elegant new Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. W. H. Locke, A. M., pastor. The day was beautiful and in every way auspicious throughout. The Presbyterian minister, Rev. D. P. Lowray, and his congregation worshipped with them throughout the day, and participated in the services. Ministers and members of other denominations also contributed to facilitate the occasion. This delightful spirit had a fine effect, and the prosperity of the Methodists, was virtually a common interest.

The services of the morning hour were opened by Rev. Dr. Nesbit, of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate, by reading the Invocation from the Ritual form for the Dedication of Churches. After the reading and singing of a hymn and prayer by Rev. Dr. C. A. Holmes, of Sewickly, the first lesson of the dedicatory service was read by the Rev. D. P. Lowray, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, followed with the reading of the second lesson by Rev. W. H. Kincaid, of Pittsburgh. At the close of the singing of a beautiful hymn of praise, Dr. Holmes discussed the "Perpetuity of Human Influence." The fact was made prominent that it is not all of life to live; that after death we continue to live in the lives of those who survive us; and that our care should be to so conduct ourselves as to bind our successors to keep our memory green until in person they pay us thanks amid the raptures of our heavenly homes. The discourse was delivered with much pathos, eloquence and power, awakening intense interest and emotion. It left a fine impression. The honored father of this gifted young minister was stationed three times in Beaver, which added to the interest of the sermon. Rev. R. T. Taylor, President of the Beaver Female Seminary and Musical Institute, presented a statement of the financial condition of the church, and the amount needed. Responses from all parts of the house came, and in a short time over two thousand dollars was secured, notwithstanding the generous gifts of the members and friends previously.

In the afternoon a general Sunday School meeting was held, composed of the school, a portion of the congregation and others. Drs. Nesbit and Holmes, and Rev. Mr. Shields, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Bridgewater, delivered brief but rich and stirring addresses. The exercises throughout were interspersed with dainty Sunday School music. The amount of contributions was further augmented to over twenty-five hundred dollars, which, with the sum promised by several generous persons the day before, makes the aggregate thirty-five hundred dollars.

At night Dr. Nesbit, the widely known and able senior editor of the Pittsburgh Advocate, occupied the pulpit. His theme was the Influences of the Gospel in Promoting Intelligence, and all the elements of Human Improvement. It was listened to with careful attention, and fairly glowed with vigorous thought, in words terse, impressive and convincing. The Doctor is a close thinker and is an able and commanding preacher. At the close of the sermon the house was solemnly set apart to the worship of God, the trustees presenting the church for that purpose, by Rev. Dr. Holmes, assisted by the other ministers present. The trustees are as follows: J. McKenzie, Rev. R. T. Taylor, Hon. M. Weyand, Hon. J. F. Dravo, J. Crump, Hon. Daniel Agnew, (Judge of the Supreme Court.) Frank Wilson.

The structure is of a mixed Gothic style of architecture, and is nearly completed, at least the body of the building, and the steeple, one hundred and thirty feet high, will soon be finished and a sweet toned bell will call the people together. The ground was the gift of the town, as also the ground occupied by the cozy Presbyterian church almost adjoining, of nearly half an acre each. The building when fully completed will cost fully twenty-five thousand dollars. It is fifty by eighty-four feet, brick, with stone cap pilasters and slate roof. The arrangement of both the lecture room and main audience chamber is the most approved forms, for light, air, and ventilation. The chapel is so planned that the two rooms, on both sides of the entrance, in time of public service, can be thrown open and thus furnishing seating accommodations for five hundred persons. The walls and ceiling bright white, floor and pulpit stand elegantly carpeted, with nice pulpit furniture. The chandeliers with numerous globes lights the room up brilliantly.

The occasion was one of much interest in the town, several things conspiring to produce the result, namely: the union feeling among the denominations, delightful weather and varied and interesting exercises. Much praise is due to the choir for the excellent singing, under the skillful lead of Mrs. President Taylor; Professor Beuter, of the Female Seminary, manipulating the organ in fine style. The presence of Mr. Joseph Shallenberger, leader of the Liberty street choir, Pittsburgh, also added to the interest. Under the able management of Hon. John F. Dravo, Prof. Taylor, and others, the financial and other arrangements were performed with much satisfaction to all concerned. Hon. M. B. Quay, of the Beaver Radical, Dr. McKinney and others gave liberally to the enterprise. Pre-eminent among the movers in this church project, and in fact with everything connected with the well-being of the place is Hon. John F. Dravo, a local minister, who resides in fine style at the lower part of the city, with a grand outlook, up and down the Ohio river, and a coal merchant in Pittsburgh. His lifelong residence in Allegheny county, in promoting the temperance and Sunday School cause, advancing the interests of the Republican party, is known to thousands of readers of the GAZETTE. Besides giving much time and labor to the church project, he has also given thousands of dollars, and expects to give still more towards its completion. Rev. W. H. Locke, A. M., recently pastor of the Liberty street church, of Pittsburgh, is the pastor. He had general charge of the day of whom we heard universal praise of his ministrations. With such able counsellors and co-workers, as we have named, we expect he will have a pleasant and successful year.

Beaver Female Seminary and Musical Institute is located at the skirts of the town in a beautiful grove, a really delightful spot. Under the able management of the President, Rev. R. T. Taylor, assisted by his excellent lady, who is connected with the musical department, and a charming singer, the institution enjoys to-day a fine reputation. The year just closing has been a bright and successful one. Commencement week opens on Sunday next, 26th, with the Annual Sermon in the Presbyterian Church, by Rev. W. H. Locke, A. M; Tuesday examination, and in the evening the Annual Address will be delivered by Rev. A. J. Endsley, Canton, O.; Wednesday examination and concert in the evening; Thursday, Address before the Alumnae by Rev. S. Burt, A. M., New Philadelphia, O.; and other Alumni exercises; evening commencement address to the graduating class by Rev. D. P. Lowray, followed with the President's reception.

We learn Prof. Taylor is likely to have his spacious building occupied by summer guests during July and August. Persons desiring a quiet, home-like nook during the heated term, at liberal terms, will do well to think of this place.

An American Consul Discovers The Ancient Golgos.

A most interesting story comes to us from the Island of Cyprus through a letter to the Boston Advertiser, from Athens, in Greece. It is a story of the discovery of the ancient city of Golgos, the birthplace of the stoic philosopher Zeno, the field wherein Barnabas, the companion of Paul, labored and died, and the scene, according to Shakspeare, of the tragedy of Othello and Desdemona. Among the tombs of this lost city have been found an extensive collection of Greek, Roman, and Phœnician antiquities by the American Consul at Larnaca, on the Island of Cyprus. The Consul is General L. P. di Cesnola, who was an officer in the Federal Army during the late war, and who was appointed to the position he now holds by Mr. Lincoln. The correspondent of the Advertiser tells us that General Cesnola, who had been interested in antiquities previous to his arrival at Cyprus, and who was a member of the Archæological Society of Turin, his native city, stopped for a few moments one day in 1867, while taking a drive with his family, at the house of a peasant in Dali, the ancient Idalium. The peasant told him that he had a secret to divulge—that, while looking for some stones to be used in the construction of his house, he had exhumed two vases. As natives are forbidden to make excavations without a firman, and as a firman would cost more than he was able to pay, the peasant buried his vases and said nothing. As soon as General Cesnola saw them he recognized them as rare and beautiful specimens of Phœnician work. He hastened to obtain a firman from the Turkish Government, and opened more than nine thousand tombs. The result was a large collection of curiosities, consisting of marble and limestone statues, statuettes, and vases, antique Greek glassware, bronzes, Crusaders' and oriental arms, and ornaments of gold, silver and engraved stones. These were readily disposed of to the British and Berlin museums, Mr. Lepsius, of Berlin, taking over six hundred vases.

Elated with his success, Gen. C. resolved to try once more. Cyprus is the place from which Venus is said to have emerged from the sea, and hundreds of temples were there dedicated to her worship. Especially at Golgos there was a temple mentioned by Theocritus and Cotullus—but Engel in his work on Cyprus (vol. 1, p. 145, and vol. 2, p. 82,) says the position of Golgos is not known. See also Smith's Dic., article Golgi.

It has been often remarked that the modern town of Atieno is built of the remains of some ancient temple. A few years since Count de Vogne was at Cyprus, and excavated near Atien, hoping to find the temple, but went away without accomplishing his object. Gen. Cesnola resolved to make another trial. On the side of a hill he first found tombs. After digging six or seven days the works of art which had before been Phœnician, all at once became Greek and Roman, and were found three feet below the surface. On digging down six or seven feet he found again the remains of Phœnician art. The occupants of the island had all chosen the same site for their cemetery, only that the Greeks and Romans, coming last, had buried their dead above the remains of Phœnicians. On approaching the foot of the hill, the spades of his workmen struck the foundations of an old wall, and lo! inside the wall, all around the valley, were rows of statues of life size, statuettes and colossal statues, bronzes, heads, bas-reliefs, Greek inscriptions and numerous votive offerings. Besides setting the position of ancient Golgos, and thus making a contribution to history, General C. has a museum of over nine thousand specimens of ancient art, many of them illustrating religious rites and domestic customs.

He has two hundred pairs of gold ear-rings, some of which a gentlemen tried in vain to purchase for Queen Victoria, some of the most beautiful rings and bracelets that have ever been found, showing that modern jewellers have not carried the art of engraving to the point it reached among the Greeks.

There are also Byzantine statues, representing the three Graces; a garnet head, beautifully engraved and set in gold. Phœnician inlaid vases; statues of Sappho and of Venus; some Phœnician and Assyrian statues, weighing between five hundred and six hundred pounds each. Although these were exhumed as late as March last, agents from both the British and Berlin museums have already been sent to make purchases for the completion of their collection. For a single vase General C. has been offered £150; but with a desire, understood with difficulty in our money getting age, that antiquities found together should remain together, he refuses to sell unless the purchaser will take the lot entire. To any reasonable party, General C. makes the following offer: A vessel shall be sent to Cyprus, the collection taken home and set up, and the amount to be paid shall be left to arbitration.

A Word to the Girls.

Do our young women know what it is that strikes one who has been away from the country for a time the most unpleasantly on his return? It is not their faces, assuredly, which for regularity of outline, and delicacy and freshness of tint, are unsurpassed—indeed, are not equaled—by anything that one sees abroad, save in the finest pictures. Nor is it their forms, which are lithe, supple and graceful, with a spring in the step and a freedom of carriage that are always a delight to the eyes. Nor can it be said to be their dress; for, though they dress too much, in colors too positive and decided, and are in this respect far behind the French women, they are yet in advance of all others—English, German, or Italian. But it is the voice, and the management of the voice. After looking at our American girls, it is almost always a disappointment to hear them speak. What they say is perhaps well enough, but the tone and mode in which they say it is not well enough. Their voices are commonly too thin and shrill, and when they are not, are pitched in too high a key. Sometimes they come through the nose a good deal more than is desirable. They have a metallic ring, or at least a reedy quality, like the vox humana of the organs, and not that soft, low and gentle quality, which Shakespeare proclaimed so "excellent in woman." Climate has no doubt a good deal to do with this result, for the fault is most perceptible at the North and East, and less perceptible at the South; but carelessness has quite as much to do with it. Our mothers and teachers, we suspect, do not take much pains to train their children and pupils into good habits of enunciation. They are carefully taught to sing, but they are not carefully taught to read and to speak. Yet more than half the charm of all social intercourse depends upon the agreeable or disagreeable use of the voice. How repulsive, when one has been lost in admiration of a beautiful face and a noble figure, to hear the mouth open like the grating of a hinge, or the "squawk" of a guinea-fowl! How delicious when it opens with the sweet trill of a flute, or with the warble of birds, or with that deep, rich, mellow and sympathetic liquidity, which no other instrument but the human throat ever attains!—Putnam's Magazine.

THE Tallahassee Sentinel learns the particulars of the recent horrid murder of Mrs. Shipman, in Marion county, Florida, by a negro. Having a grudge against Mrs. S. the negro deliberately fired at her with a shot gun while she was lying asleep on a bed, slightly injuring her. She was shot again, however, and killed instantly. The negro was killed at once by the woman's husband.

THERE are now eighty-six missionary societies and 40,000 missionaries in the field; the gospel is preached in 15,000 localities in the heathen world; $5,000,000 is annually collected to sustain them; 780,000 converts are enrolled in Africa, and 713,000 in Asia.

Dean Stanley's Sermon on the Death of Dickens—The Boulton Masqueraders—Church of England and the Ecumenical Council—Official Report Concerning the Cuban Vessel Upton—Political Reform in Portugal—Submarine Cable from Spain Projected.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, June 20.—Dean Stanley's sermon on the death of Dickens, yesterday, was founded upon the parable of Lazarus. Dickens taught a lesson of duties, rich to the poor. Westminster Abbey was crammed. The working classes predominated. Part of the last will of Dickens was read. In that he declines a monument, but rests his fame on his published works. He also urges his children to practice Christianity in a broad spirit, not accepting the narrow construction of any man or sect. The Dean closed with a glowing tribute to the illustrious dead.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has declined to issue a manifesto against the infallibility of the Pope.

The Carlist Junta have voted in favor of religious intolerance and the establishment of an inquisition.

An explosion occurred yesterday in one of the government powder mills at Waltham Abbey, near this city. Several were killed.

The death of Lord Arthur Clinton, on Saturday, creates renewed interest in the case of the Boulton masqueraders. His dying declaration that he was innocent of the crimes imputed to him is fully verified by his attendants and companions, who solemnly disclaim any criminal purpose in his woman personation.

The funeral of Mrs. Lubey, mother of the Fenian convicts at Dublin, yesterday, was attended by a large crowd of people, sympathizing with the Fenian movement.

The telegraph reports slight showers during the night at scattered points in the Kingdom.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has addressed a letter to the Bishop of Bristol discouraging any counter movement in the Church of England to the Ecumenical Council and advising abstention from action as more dignified, wise and sober. The Archbishop considers the English formularies sufficient response to the proceeding of the Roman Council.

Disraeli, in the second edition of Blackwood, replies sharply to the criticisms made on "Lothair" in that magazine.

A dispatch from Bombay reports the divers brought up some of the treasure lost on the wreck of Camilla Mitchell near that place, and that they will probably succeed in recovering the entire amount.

CUBA.

HAVANA, June 20.—The steamer George B. Upton has effected a second landing on the Cuban coast. The following particulars are given in the official reports from Puerto Principe:

The Geo. B. Upton left Aspinwall on the 8th instant, and on the 12th reached the mouth of the River Herrallura on the Cuban shore. There she landed Colonel Lono, with twenty-two men and her entire cargo, consisting of one thousand stand of arms, a large quantity of ammunition, and a French repeating cannon. Some correspondence between Cisneros and Cespedes, which has fallen into the hands of the Spaniards, shows this cargo consisted of the material left on board at the first landing, supplemented with fresh supplies embarked at Aspinwall. Six of the filibusters have been killed since landing, but whether they belonged to the first or second party is not stated.

Ten cases of vomito and cholera are reported in the jurisdiction of Puerto Principe.

MARINE NEWS.

QUEENSTOWN, June 20.—The steamships Palmyra, Abyssinia and Colorado, from New York, have arrived.

HAVANA, June 20.—The English steamship Dacia, with the new West India cable on board, has arrived at Porto Rico after a pleasant voyage. Sir Charles Bright, one of the originators of the new enterprise, was a passenger.

The laying of the cable between St. Thomas, Porto Rico and Jamaica, will begin immediately.

PORTUGAL.

LISBON, June 20.—The decrees abolishing the death penalty and pensions was approved. The right of holding political meetings and the right of petition will be officially granted in a day or two.

SPAIN.

MADRID, June 20.—In the Cortes to-day Romero submitted a project for a sub-marine telegraphic cable from Spain to Balearic Island.

(SECOND SESSION.)

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]
WASHINGTON, June 20, 1870.

SENATE.

Mr. WILSON, from the Military Committee, reported a joint resolution granting condemned cannon for a monument to Gen. Nathaniel Lyon in Green county, Missouri. Passed.

Mr. M'CREERY presented a petition from the Kentucky Congressional delegation for the removal of political disabilities for a large number of Kentuckians. Referred.

Mr. HOWARD introduced a joint resolution that no applications for alterations of railroad charters on the part of companies who received land grants shall be allowed, unless the reasons are specifically set forth.

Mr. DRAKE offered a joint resolution bringing all foreign telegraph companies having offices in the United States under the provisions of the internal revenue laws. Referred.

Mr. LEWIS offered a resolution calling upon the President for information as to moneys paid into the United States Treasury on account of property seized, condemned and conficated in Virginia by virtue of an act of Congress. Adopted.

The House amendments to the bill to authorize the settlement of accounts of officers of the army and navy were concurred in.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the Postoffice appropriation bill, the question being on the amendment of Mr. Ramsey to abolish the franking privilege.

Mr. Sumner's amendment for one cent postage was voted down—yeas 19, nays 29.

An amendment for two cent postage was offered and advocated by Mr. NYE.

The amendment was lost—23 to 28.

Mr. DRAKE moved an amendment allowing $500 dollars for each member of the Senate and House for postage. Rejected without division.

Mr. NYE moved an amendment to allow all newspapers to be sent free to bona fide subscribers within the limits of the United States. Lost—23 to 35.

Mr. SPENCER moved to amend that the abolition of the franking privilege shall not take effect till October first. Agreed to—35 to 23.

Mr. SHERMAN, from Committee on Finance, reported with amendments the House bill to reduce taxation.

Evening Session.—Mr. SUMNER submitted a copy of correspondence from the State Department, setting forth that the French Cable Company have renounced the exclusive privilege conferred upon them to land cables on the coast of France. Ordered printed.

The Senate took up as the special business of the evening the Texas Pacific Railroad bill.

An amendment providing for the consolidation of the Alabama & Chattanooga, Vicksburg & Meriden and North Louisiana & Texas railroads, and their junction with the Texas Pacific road at Marshall, was discussed upon the propriety of reviving old land grants to those companies, and was finally adopted, with a proviso continuing the existing grants.

A number of amendments were submitted without action, and the bill went over to Wednesday evening.

The Postoffice Appropriation bill again came up.

Mr. TRUMBULL offered an amendment limiting the franking privilege to departments and permitting public documents to be franked from Washington only.

No quorum. Adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Bills were introduced and referred, viz:

By Mr. POLLARD: Authorizing the President to open negotiations with the British North American provinces for admission as States of the Union.

By Mr. BUTLER, Massachusetts: To annex Dominica.

By Mr. RANDALL: Supplementary to the act for the relief of widows and orphans of officers, seamen and marines of the Oneida.

By Mr. WILSON, Ohio: To promote the cultivation of public lands, offering annual premiums for best homesteads.

By Mr. MUNGEN: To repeal all laws and resolutions as to spirit metres.

By Mr. CLARKE, Kansas: Making a grant of lands to the Preston, Salina & Denver Railroad Company.

Mr. SHELDON, of New York, offered a resolution for the payment of members from Virginia the same amount of compensation paid other members of the Forty-first Congress.

The House refused to order the main question—49 to 96.

The resolution was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. FOX offered a resolution instructing the Committee of Ways and Means to report a bill reducing the duties on potatoes and all kinds of fish fifty per cent. Referred to Committee of Ways and Means.

Mr. NEGLEY asked leave to offer a concurrent resolution for the appointment of a joint select committee on the subject of Cuba.

The resolution was not received.

Mr. SARGENT, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported back the Senate amendments to the Indian appropriation bill, and said he would ask their consideration on Thursday next.

The House then went into Committee on the fortification bill. The bill appropriates $1,264,750. It passed.

Mr. JULIAN asked leave to report back from the Committee on Public Lands the Senate bill relating to the Central Branch of the Pacific Railroad in Kansas, which had been taken from the Speaker's table some time ago and referred to that Committee. He wished it to resume its place on the Speaker's table, as the Committee had no time to consider it.

Objection being made, the House refused to suspend the rules, and the bill remains with the Committee on Public Lands.

The House went into Committee on the Army appropriation bill. The bill appropriates $29,977,367.

On motion of Mr. DAWES, an appropriation of $50,000 was made for taking meteorological observations and giving notice to northern lake and sea ports of the approach and force of storms.

On motion of Mr. SHANKS, an appropriation of $20,000 was made for ornamental trees and shrubs in northern cemeteries.

The Committee rose and the bill was passed by the House.

Mr. CULLOM, from the Committee on Territories, reported a bill to authorize the people of New Mexico to form a constitution and State government, and for the admission of such State into the Union as the State of Lincoln. The bill was recommitted.

Mr. COX, from Committee on Banking, reported a bill to require National Banks going into liquidation to retire their circulating notes. Passed.

Mr. MAYNARD asked leave to offer a resolution declaring full concurrence in the statements contained in the President's recent message in regard to Cuba.

Mr. FOX and others objected.

Mr. SCOFIELD, from Committee on Naval Affairs, reported a bill extending the provisions of the act in relation to furnishing artificial limbs to officers and men of the navy and marine corps, which passed.

Adjourned.

A GENTLEMAN writing from Japan gives the following, which, taken as the expression of a comparatively unknown theology, cannot fail to be interesting: Yacca was a very intelligent Japanese, could read and write readily, having been "creditably examined," as he said, for government service. He had made religion his study; in order to be able to discuss before the "public board of scholars," the relative merits of the Sinto and Buddhist religions. He, like all the literati, claimed to be a follower of Confucius, and was inclined to rationalistic views on all matters concerning a hereafter. One idea, however, which seems to be inherent in Japanese human nature, was firmly rooted in Yacca's mind. He believed that Japan had a particular god as a ruler, whose sway over Japan was limited by no higher power. He believed that every other country had its god and that these supreme rulers had no communication one with the other. The great Buddha of Japan was not the Buddha of China or India, although like them. The "gods of different nations never commune together, and why should their servants on earth?" was the idea which prejudiced the people against foreigners. This idea, however, that men were to imitate the gods, Yacca declared impracticable, although he believed in a national god. He said that long years ago there came a band of Christians to Japan, to reform it, and bring it under the rule of the Roman god (Pope), and at once there was war in heaven among the followers of the god of Rome and the god of Japan.

THE project of establishing a direct steam communication between Stettin and New York is, as we lately said, progressing favorably. All the difficulties which were placed in the way of the undertaking could not prevent a number of capitalists, who saw how profitable the line must be, from forming a company, and ordering two large steam-vessels in England which, together with two American steamers, are to keep up the direct service. The new vessels are to be about three hundred feet long, and capable of containing from seven to eight hundred passengers. The first is to be completed and safely delivered at Stettin by the 20th of March next, and the second four weeks later. The Company will bear the name "Baltic Lloyd, Stettin and American Steam Navigation Company."

It is announced by several journals that Dr. Oscar Liebreich, to whom we owe protagon and the now well-known chloral, has discovered a new anodyne to which the name of æthylide (aethylidenchlorid) has been given. The substance, which has been repeatedly applied with perfect success in the clinical hospital of Dr. Langenbeck, is said to be more rapid and agreeable in its effects than chloroform. The chief merit, however, claimed for it is, that it may be administered without interfering with the free and natural breathing of the patient, an advantage which it possesses over most other anæsthetics. As the effect of the new body is stated to be very transient, the dose must be repeated in a lengthened operation.

SECOND EDITION.

FOUR O'CLOCK

THE CAPITAL.

The Indian Question—Amendments of Senate Committee to the House Bill for the Reduction of Taxation—Annexation of Dominica.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]
WASHINGTON, June 20, 1867.

THE INDIAN QUESTION.

There is a material difference between the two Houses on the Indian appropriations. The House Committee representing the views of that body takes the ground that none of the Indian treaties are valid, and state the Indians themselves say so. The Senate, in amending the House bill, took an exactly opposite stand, and adopted the appropriations to the different treaties. The question is a knotty one, requiring considerable controversy before the extremes are harmonized. The opinion is becoming general among the House members that the Indians are paupers, and should be treated as such.

REDUCTION OF TAXATION.

The Senate Committee's amendments to the House bill strike out the first eleven sections imposing special taxes, and provide for the repeal of all such taxes after May 1st, 1871, except on brewers, distilled spirits and tobacco; also, for the repeal, after the 1st of October next, of all taxes on sales except those paid by stamps and sales of tobacco, snuff, segars, distilled spirits and wines; also for the repeal on the 1st of October of taxes on articles named in Schedule A, special taxes on boats, barges and floats, legacies, successions, passports and gross receipts. All the sections relative to stamps are stricken out leaving in force the provisions of existing laws with slight exception. The sections relative to income tax are unaltered, except the clause limiting the deduction for house rent to five hundred dollars is omitted. The tax on dividends of manufacturing, mining, gas, coal and bridge companies is struck out. An additional section authorizes the consolidation of two or more collection districts.

The tariff bill is amended in various particulars, including the following: sugars not above No. 7, one and three-quarter cents per pound; Nos. 7 to 10, two cents; Nos. 10 to 13, two and a quarter cents; Nos. 13 to 16, two and a half cents; Nos. 16 to 20, three cents; above No. 20 and refined sugars, four cents. The duty on live animals is reduced to twenty per cent. ad valorem; on animal oils to twenty per cent. ad valorem; on prepared opium to six dollars per pound. The clauses relative to teas and coffee are unchanged, and also those concerning iron, with slight modifications as to iron wire.

The following are new clauses:

Bituminous coal and shale, fifty per cent. per ton.

Bagging, all descriptions valued less than ten cents per yard, two cents, and valued at more than ten cents per yard, three cents per pound.

Corsets, valued at ten dollars per dozen or less, three dollars per dozen, and valued at over ten dollars per dozen, thirty-three per cent. ad valorem.

Eyelets, six cents per thousand.

Ultra Marine six cents per pound.

Unfinished grindstones one dollar and a half per ton, or finished seven dollars.

The bill provides for the importation for two years free of duty of machinery for steam canal towage by any State or person authorized by any Legislature.

Several articles are stricken from the free list, such as oxalic and sulphuric acids, antimony, books, maps and charts, oak bark, crude sulphur and rough diamonds. The date the tariff is to take effect is changed to October first next. An amended section allows the refunding of excess of duties on goods in bonded warehouses when the law takes effect.

ACQUISITION OF DOMINICA.

The joint resolution introduced by Mr. Butler this morning, and referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, for the acquisition of Dominica, provides the republic shall surrender to the United States all public buildings, fortifications, &c., and be incorporated as a State in the Union, the United States to pay $1,552,000 gold to liquidate the debt of Dominica.

NEW YORK CITY.

NEW YORK, June 20, 1870.

BAD INVESTMENT.

The manager of the Empire Rink Concerts last week acknowledges a cash loss of $40,000.

NEW TRIALS ORDERED.

New trials were ordered to-day in the cases of Jerome Bradley, convicted of the theft of $150,000 in bonds from Morrison & Hutchinson, and of Patrick McDonald, emigrant ticket swindler.

RETURN OF THE CUBAN VESSEL UPTON.

The steamer Geo. B. Upton arrived this morning. The officers confirm the previous reports of the landing of the first expedition which left this port on the steamer May 16th, but reports the successful landing on the return trip of a force of one hundred men and additional supplies taken on board at Aspinwall. The landing was effected at an unfrequented and unprotected part of the coast and not molested by Spaniards. The officers of the Upton knew nothing of the fate of the first expedition until they reached this port. The entire cruise to Cuba, Aspinwall and return was made under the American flag.

The following are the authentic details of the steamer George B. Upton: The vessel came in sight of Cuba on the 22d of May. While searching for a proper place to land the cargo one of the Spanish gunboats made its appearance, causing considerable alarm to those on board the Upton. However the character of the latter vessel was not suspected and the gunboat sailed away. The work of discharging the cargo then commenced and continued with vigor throughout the night. There were landed 3,250 Enfield rifles, 300 Remington, 10,500 pounds of powder, 250,000 cartridges for Spencer rifles, 400,000 for Remington's, 1,000,000 for Enfield, 6,000 matches for cannon, 4,000 pounds sulphur, ten million caps, seventy-five cases clothing, forty cases shoes. While the vessel was off the coast of Cuba she was visited by Col. Belancourt, who gave an encouraging account of the patriotic cause. After discharging her cargo the Upton sailed for Aspinwall, where she refitted. Upon June 3rd she took on board one hundred young Cubans, under the command of Col. Marino Lono, and sixty tons of war material. This expedition was successfully landed on the 12th of June. The Upton then sailed for New York. Another expedition on a larger scale is anticipated.

THE RAILROAD WAR.

The Erie Railway Company has instituted a suit in the Supreme Court against the Lake Shore Company, the New York Central being associated as co-defendant. The plaintiff alleges defendant now acts, has for a long time past acted, entirely in the interest of the New York Central Company and has illegally violated its contracts with the Erie Company: that the Buffalo and State Line Railroad Co. now part of the Lake Shore Road, altered the guage of its road to the guage of four feet nine inches to accommodate the cars of the Central Company, and that in regard to the time of its trains and carriage of freight it has sought in every way to injure the traffic on the Erie Railroad. Charges are also made of collusion between Vanderbilt, President of the Central Company, and his son-in-law, Horace F. Clark, President of the Lake Shore Road. The plaintiff demands three million dollars damages, and asks that the defendant be restrained by injunction from violating engagements entered into with plaintiff. Complaint was served on Horace F. Clarke, President of the Lake Shore Road, on Saturday.

ROW BOAT RACE.

The six oared boat race between the Harvard and Rutger students at New Brunswick, New Jersey, was won by the former by three boat lengths in twenty-three minutes and nine seconds over a course of three miles. Five thousand people witnessed the race.

RETURN TO SAN FRANCISCO.

The Chinamen, unable to obtain employment in Massachusetts, it is understood leave to-morrow for San Francisco.

HOT WEATHER.

The weather was extremely hot to-day. The thermometer reached ninety-four. Several cases of sun-stroke are reported.

STORM.

There was heavy thunder and lightning and some rain to-night.

Congregation of Indians at Fort Laramie.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHEYENNE, June 20.—Information received from Fort Laramie says that there are now at that post one hundred and thirty-three lodges of Sioux, and more daily arriving. It is expected by the last of this week there will be one thousand lodges. The Indians are impatient to hear from Red Cloud, and think there is something wrong. They are anxious to trade yet very independent and saucy. They will not allow any white man to cross the Platte to their camps.

Upper Rivers.

[By P. and A. Telegraph.]

OIL CITY, June 20.—River falling with twenty-two inches water in the channel. Weather cloudy. Thermometer 71 at 6 P. M.

—Leo Pollak and George W. Pollak, his son, arrived at Cincinnati on the last day of May and insured on the day following the life of the latter for $10,000 in the Cincinnati Mutual Life, $5,000 in the Home Mutual, and $6,000 against accident. On the Saturday following they took the steamer for Louisville. About the middle of the night there was a cry of "man overboard" and the son was gone. The father comes now and makes application for the insurance money, which the companies decline to pay until the body can be found or the case investigated.

—A hail storm yesterday extended through the western part of Massachusetts, doing great damage to the crops. In Boston and westward there was a heavy thunder storm. Many buildings were struck but no loss of life.

FOREIGN ITEMS.

FROM the North German Correspondent we learn the following: The Polish parties of all political shades, from the so-called conservatives to the red Democrats, have for weeks been using every means in their power to induce the Council of the Vatican to make an official declaration in favor of Poland. As these endeavors have been frustrated by the opposition of influential and respected members of the Council, inclusive of some Poles, who see in the whole agitation only political motives, a monster petition to the Council is to be got up in Galicia, Posen and West Prussia.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung writes from Posen that the Jesuits are just now extremely active in that province. They go, he states, from one small place to another, and carefully avoid the larger towns, particularly Posen, knowing very well that they will find few friends among the intelligent classes. They generally remain a week in the same locality, where, during the whole time, a sort of holy fair is held, to which the country people flock in from all the villages. Around the church a circle of booths is erected, and here prayer-books, holy pictures, crucifixes and rosaries may be had at fabulously low prices. They celebrate mass, and occasionally preach in German or Polish, according to circumstances. The peasantry press forward to kiss the hands of the apostles, and every one seems delighted, but more especially the Jewish publicans, who are disposing of their stock of brandy with unprecedented rapidity.

THE celebrated theologian Dr. Tholuck, will celebrate, on the 2d of December next, the fiftieth anniversary of his entry upon his academical labors in the University of Halle. A committee has been formed in Halle, which has just issued a call upon the scholars and friends of Professor Tholuck for contributions toward placing into the hands of the distinguished professor on his jubilee day, "a capital for the purpose of founding a fund (stiftung) which shall bear his name and which shall be for the benefit of the students of evangelical theology in the University of Halle." The precise form which the stiftung is to take will be determined by Dr. Tholuck himself. Letters and contributions are to be sent to Professor Kahler, Wilhelmstrasse, 33 Halle-on-the-Saale. American students who have attended Halle always leave it with the greatest affection for Professor Tholuck, whose sympathy for the United States has been most cordial. His theological friends in America, whom he numbers by thousands, will, it is hoped, not be behind in expressing their appreciation of his evangelical labors. Dr. Tholuck reached his seventy-first birthday on the 30th of March last.

Voudooism in Texas--Remarkable Narrative of a Negro Phrensy--Astonishing Actions.

[From the Fairfield (Texas) Register, May 28.

On Sunday, the 15th day of this month, at the farm of Mr. J. Wright, lying two miles east of Springfield in Limestone county, Texas, an old negro woman named Jane, who, with her husband, lived on the farm, announced to the rest of the negroes on the farm, some eight or ten adults in number, that she had just received a revelation from God that the millenium was to come on Thursday, the 26th day of this month, and that the mighty "Ship of Zion" would come—water or no water—and take all those to glory who would follow implicitly the directions she (Jane) would give them, she being, as she avowed, the chosen instrument of God for their salvation. She first preached a whole day to a large congregation, and after having made many converts she commanded them to burn one-half of all their kitchen furniture, clothing, etc., they possessed—no baggage being allowed—which they did in a mighty bonfire. She next commanded them to cut up with hoes one half of all their growing crops, which they did, digging everything up by the roots, much of the corn was nearly waist high, and both corn and cotton were good generally. She then commanded that they give away half their children, their wagons, horses, plows and other farming utensils, which they did, to several persons living near. Then came a command for both sexes to entirely disrobe themselves and pray and dance the "Holy Dance," which was implicitly obeyed. Many of the small children, upon refusing to obey these orders, were severely beaten, and one man who refused was nearly beaten to death by the women. They were then made to partake of what she denominated the "Lord's Supper," the bread consisting of water and salads, and the wine of water and molasses. She said a human sacrifice was demanded, and accordingly stripped her own infant of its clothing, wrapped it in a cloth, and prepared to give it as a burnt offering, and would assuredly have done so but for the interference of some present who were not so insane. They were then commanded to kill all their dogs, which they did to the number of fifteen, and after some two days—these things all the time going on—they were ordered by their leader to eat of the putrid carcasses, at which command, they, for the first time, evinced a disposition to "go slow."

While they were halting, their leader endeavored to show them how to "go through a dorg," but her stomach being of a different notion from her head, eschewed the repast, and speedily delivered itself of such wonderful morsels.

At this stage of the proceedings, Mr. Isaac Durst, a gentleman living near, and who had desired to stop the insane proceedings before, but knew not exactly how to proceed, told her husband she was crazy, and to get a chain and fasten her, where she could no longer do mischief. She at once fled and was pursued, caught, and secured, and at once the rest of her followers gathered round, and seemed for the first time to become aware of the mischief they had wrought. They thanked Mr. Durst greatly for breaking the spell Jane had thrown over them—went to their now almost ruined fields and commenced work again in good earnest—the parties having kept and returned to them their stock, farming utensils, &c. They are now, however, without the necessary apparel and food to enable them to work successfully. The excitement lasted some ten days, and all that time no work was done by these deluded creatures.

Until the confinement of the old woman, every one of her commands were obeyed, and, from what we have narrated, none can doubt that if she had commanded her followers to commit murder among the whites they would have essayed to do it. In the case of the negro man beaten, she commanded them to beat him to death, unless he joined their band. But for Mr. Durst, he would have been killed outright.

—The interest of Mrs. McFarland-Richardson and the children of Albert D. Richardson in the property of deceased at Woodside, N. J., was sold by order of the Court of Chancery, at the Court House in Newark, N. J., yesterday, by J. H. Stone, attorney of the special guardian of the heirs, subject to a mortgage of $7,500 and interest due to the amount of $459 99. Chas. A. Richardson, brother of deceased, was the purchaser at $150.

—Bayard Taylor and other passengers publish a letter of thanks to an engineer of the Union Pacific Railroad for preventing a terrible accident to the express train from Ogden to Omaha. A pile of ties had been placed across the track at a point near Ogallalla, where Indian ponies were killed a few days since. The engineer discovered them about midnight and stopped the train.

—S. R. Pierson having resigned his position as Vice President and general manager of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, Geo. S. Dunlap, for many years general superintendent of the road, has been appointed general manager in his place, while the place of Vice President has been filled by M. L. Sykes.

BONDS at Frankfort, 96½.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp, 53½

GOLD closed in New York on yesterday at 112¾@112⅞.

IN our agricultural columns to-day we publish an interesting chapter on Wheat, from the pen of Hon. JAMES S. NEGLEY, our representative in Congress.

THE Commercial denies having originated the bolting movement; but nevertheless is content to fall in with it. This denial is a mere feint. The job originated in that office, and the attempt to disorganize the party has no substantial backing but what that sheet gives it.

IT IS a good sign that so many of the men who were parties in the political temperance movement last year refuse to take any part in forming a new political party. They are too shrewd and sensible to be caught in any such trap. They are Republicans, and will stand by that party in all that pertains to the maintenance of its distinctive principles.

A FEW of the men who were active in supporting Mr. Dickey last fall are now running around begging for signatures to Brigham's bolting call; but the bulk of the prominent temperance men are content to wait and see what our Convention does, and will then confine themselves to the Commissioner's office. They are not disorganizers, and do not intend to be used as instruments in disrupting the party.

THIS day week the Democratic Editors of the State will assemble in council at Altoona. What this august body will do cannot be safely anticipated, but it is quite likely that a resolution endorsing the course of the Indians and declaring the war against them a "failure" and an outrage on the part of a tyranical administration, will be unanimously adopted and forwarded to Red Cloud to encourage him and his people in their laudable efforts to wipe out the settlements of the western frontier.

THE Democratic members of Congress from Pennsylvania had a meeting lately, and arranged their plan for the fall campaign. In all the close districts they are to run their best men, and claim support for them on conservative grounds; in all the large Republican districts they are to devote themselves to fomenting factions in the Republican ranks, so as to slip in their man between. The Brigham bolt in this county is a part of this scheme—the first step in carrying it out. The object is to elect a free trade member of Congress from this district.

AS STATED ELSEWHERE, in this morning's GAZETTE, the Republicans of Allegheny County will be allowed the privilege of endorsing the call which has been issued from the Commercial office for a new party. We understand that certain young gentlemen of eminent respectability have already appended their names, as they say, "for fun," and to play a hoax in return upon those who are attempting to hoodwink honest republicans by the cry of "reform." After the pronunciamento has been published to the world, the dear people are entreated to endorse it. This, to characterize it by no harsher name, is extreme modesty. Old directories are being carefully searched, and the tombstones in the different cemeteries as carefully deciphered in order to swell the list.

THE GOOD CITY FATHERS of Allegheny who are progressive and liberal in most directions, should at once increase the night police force, which is now, by far, too small a body to preserve order, and sufficiently well guard the property of citizens. The frequency of burglaries of late in the Fifth and Sixth Wards is full evidence that the force needs strengthening, as it is worse than idle to suppose that two men, no matter how faithful and efficient they may be, can patrol such large districts and be held responsible for wrong-doings which may occur. Allegheny is expanding into a large city, and the larger its proportions become and the more numerous its population, the greater the necessity for a thoroughly organized strong police force. We hope that some action will be taken in the premises by the Councils as it is a matter of grave importance to the citizens that they should receive for themselves and their property the fullest protection possible in a police force in keeping with the importance of the city and its population.

POOR LO and his interesting family of innocents have a warm champion and earnest defender in the Post. The terrible deeds of murder, rapine and theft committed by the dusky warriors of the west lose all their horror to our neighbor in anxiety to say something disparaging to the present administration. We hope, however, that the Post is earnest and conscientious in the premises, for no matter how wrong its course may be, it develops a sympathy for untutored and unlettered humanity which was never exhibited when a whole nation labored to bring relief to the doors of the cruelly treated black race who were tortured in slavery worse than the Indian family ever can be, and yet whose only fault was the peculiar shade of color vouchsafed them by their Creator. To say the least, it comes with bad taste from the Post to set up a defense and apology for the noble red man, who, even now, goes about on the frontier carrying the brand of uncivilized war and visiting with inconceivably terrible outrages the unprotected settlers of the frontier.

DIVIDE AND RULE.

In this free country of ours every man has a perfect right to speak and act as he pleases, provided he does not speak or commit treason, or interfere with the rights of others. We would be the last to interdict free speech or untrammeled action. We accord to every man entire freedom of utterance and action, under Constitutional and legal provisions. If any one believes that the so-called Democratic party is right, and that the doctrines which it promulgates and maintains are calculated to advance the best interests of the country, we honor him for identifying himself publicly with that party. But we have the most sovereign contempt for any man, who, while he maintains a public connection with a political organization, labors privately for its destruction. One rebel remaining in the camp, under the guise of a loyal man, is worse than a thousand traitors outside, who boldly and fearlessly declare their purpose.

It is plain that the Commercial has not, for years, been in harmonious accord with the great Republican party, either in this county or the country at large. A pilgrimage into Westmoreland county in the early days of Johnson's open and avowed treason to the party that elevated him to power, with the purpose of negotiating terms upon which it might be subjected to his traitorous control, and the continuous abuse which the editors of that paper have heaped upon the loyal Republicans who saved the country from the grasp of treason, with other things too numerous, and perhaps too private, to mention, furnish conclusive evidence that the proclivities of the Commercial are not toward the Republican organization. That paper has a right to go on a pilgrimage to Mecca if it pleases, and negotiate terms upon which its columns, now so completely unmasked, may be transferred to the interests of the Democratic party; but every honest man—whatever may be his political relations—will say, that it has no right, Guy Fawkes-like, to act the part of a traitor and attempt to sap the foundations of the party with which, ostensibly, it claims connection.

The treason of our contemporary to the Republican organization has culminated in a "call" for a "third party," which it is now pretty well known, originated in its own office, and was gotten up by the managing editor and a few disappointed office seekers, who have boxed the political compass within the past few years.

We have some doubts in our mind whether the "call" should receive any consideration at the hands of the loyal press. It certainly would not at ours, were it not that it exhibits, unmistakably, the hollowness and rottenness of the pretensions of the Commercial, with which it originated, to the honored principles and traditions of the Republican party. It is a most nefarious fraud on the public. It has been issued without even the apparent sanction of any person, either responsible or irresponsible. It purposes to organize a new party without consulting the wishes of the people. It is an exercise of the grossest tyranny. Like the "tea," it will be "thrown overboard." Nothing will come of it. We are in favor of reform in Church and State, and wherever else it is needed. But all reform should be secured in a proper way. If the people desire a change they will effect it themselves. They will not allow a few designing, fickle and unscrupulous men to ordain it, so that afterwards they may be allowed the privilege of giving it their sanction.

There is not a single signature appended to the "call." Those who wrote it are afraid to publish their names. This of itself is an evidence of the dishonesty of the whole affair, and the malice of those who concocted it. Reformers were never afraid to publish their names. If his purpose is honest and sincere, why should any man be afraid to subscribe his name to a document, the professed object of which is to purge and reform? We think it is the silliest fraud that ever has been perpetrated on an intelligent community.

The great unknown—"We"—cordially invite the co-operation of all honest Republicans to commit an act of political suicide. Will honest men enlist in a dishonorable, and occult work? We are sure the Republicans of Allegheny county will not. They will do everything honestly and above board, and will not submit to the insult which has been given them in this anonymous manifesto of four or five political tricksters, who assume to be princes in the Republican party.

Smarting under many grievous disappointments, with its insatiable and unprincipled ambition ungratified, and fretting and chafing because it has not been recognized, notwithstanding all its political tergiversations, as the moulder of the opinions of the Republican party, the Commercial, in Machiavelian style, seeks to divide in order that it may command. Will it succeed?

THE SIMPLE TRUTH.

And now comes Major General S. D. Sturgis, U. S. A., to the defence of Senator Cameron, fearlessly and earnestly supporting the charges made some time ago to the effect that Gen. Magruder, of the late C. S. A., acted with hypocrisy toward President Lincoln, protesting unflinching loyalty to the Union while he was arranging and preparing to enter the ranks of the armed enemies. It matters little at this day how far Gen. Magruder deceived the President by his protestations of loyalty up to the eleventh hour, but when Mr. Cameron made the statement showing him up in his true colors, many journals, out of blind hatred for Senator Cameron, denied the soft impeachment and endorsed Magruder's veracity over that of his accuser. Gen. Sturgis unqualifiedly reasserts the charge and fully substantiates all that Mr. Cameron originally stated. We make the following extracts from the voluntary rebutting evidence against Magruder's letter of denial, which found extensive publication in the papers inimical to Cameron:

"During the summer of 1862 I commanded the defenses of Washington, and had almost daily intercourse with the President, who was kind enough to enter into familiar conversation with me on many occasions, which I shall always remember with pleasure and pride. On one occasion, at the request of the officers of the 71st New York Volunteers (which constituted a part of my command) the President reviewed that regiment in its camp near Tenallytown. After the review we rode back together toward Washington, until we reached the road diverging toward the "Soldiers' Home" (where the President was then temporarily residing), and there we separated. During that ride, our conversation being of a casual character, something was said which called up in the mind of the President the conduct of Colonel Magruder at the time of his resignation from the service, and he said: "Sturgis" (it was no unusual thing for Mr. Lincoln to adopt this familiar style) "I cannot call to mind now any single event of my administration that gave me so much pain, or wounded me so deeply as the singular conduct of Colonel Magruder on the very night before he abandoned us."

I said, "Why so, Mr. President?"

Mr. Lincoln replied, "Because he came to see me the very evening before he left, and voluntarily said, while expressing his abhorrence of secession, 'Sir, I was brought up and educated under the glorious old flag, I have lived under it and have fought under it, and, sir, with the help of God, I shall fight under it again, and, if need be, shall die under it!'"

"The very next day," the President continued, "Magruder abandoned us! So that at the very moment he was making to me these protestations of loyalty and devotion he must have had his mind fully made up to leave! And it seemed the more wanton and cruel in him because he knew that I had implicit confidence in his integrity. The fact is, when I learned he had gone over to the enemy, and I had been so completely deceived by him, my confidence was shaken in everybody, and I hardly knew who to trust any more."

As Mr. Lincoln said this an expression of deep sorrow pervaded his features, and for some time he rode along in sad silence, as though unable or unwilling to give further vent to the painful feelings induced by the mere remembrance of what appeared to him an act of base ingratitude.

Now, Mr. Editor, I have taken pains to give you not only substantially what Mr. Lincoln said on that occasion, but, as nearly as I can recall them, his exact words. And I have done so with reluctance; because, as a general thing, I am disposed to let those officers who elected to cast their fortunes with the the rebellion have the full benefit of whatever explanation they may chose to offer in extenuation or justification of their course. But as Mr. Magruder's letter places the conduct of the President (when we consider the important and momentous issues with which he was then grappling) in a trifling and flippant light before the country, I do not feel authorized in withholding my testimony while so much wrong is being heaped upon the memory of so great and good a man.

S. D. STURGIS,
Colonel 7th Cavalry,
Brevet Major-General U. S. A.

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

For the Pittsburgh Gazette.

A CHAPTER ON WHEAT.

The precise locality in which the wheat plant (Friticum vulgare) originated is not known, nor can it be found at the present time growing in its wild state. It is first mentioned in history as growing about 4,000 years ago in Asia, in latitude 36 degrees north of the equator, near the northeastern extremity of the Mediterranean Sea, and the central part of what is now called Turkey in Asia. Some years later, it is spoken of as growing very abundantly in Egypt, and, in cases of scarcity, supplying the surrounding nations, when their own lands failed to produce it. Africa was once the granary of the world, and now produces large quantities for exportation. In the south of Russia near the Black Sea and also in Turkey immense quantities are grown and exported to different parts of the world. It is, therefore, evident that this belt of the earth is peculiarly adapted by nature to the growth of this plant. There is no doubt that it originated in the Eastern Hemisphere, probably not far from the place first named, though we should suppose further south, as it is somewhat doubtful whether it would propagate itself spontaneously for a series of years or indefinitely in a climate so far north. It undoubtedly extended westerly with the progress of civilization perhaps through Africa, across the Mediterranean to Europe, and thence to the American continent.

The varieties of wheat in cultivation are very numerous, and are increasing every year with great rapidity, as the knowledge of the science of agriculture becomes more generally diffused among the people. As every seed produces a plant differing, in some respects, from every other of its species, there is evidently no limit to the number of varieties that may be produced by the skillfull cultivator, and it is impossible to assign any limit to the improvement which can be made in the quality and productiveness of this plant. The following are some of the popular varieties in general cultivation in this country: Winter varieties—Tappahannock, Diehl, Talavera, Treadwell, Early May, White Mediterranean, Winter Club, Alabama, Blue Stem, Indiana, White Genesee, Kentucky Red, Golden Straw, White Wabash, Sandomirka, Tasmania, Genesee White Flint, Silver Straw, Week's White California, etc. Spring varieties—Fife, China Tea, Canada Club, Armantha, Black Sea, Rio Grande, etc.

The Tappahannock is very early, prolific, not injured by the fly, and produces a large quantity and fine quality of flour. It is well adapted to the Southern and the Middle States. The Diehl has a white kernel, ripens early, is little injured by the fly, and finely adapted to the Western and Northern States. The Fife possesses excellent qualities—early maturity white flour, hardiness and resistance to the fly. It is a spring wheat, and well adapted to the North, where winter wheat cannot be cultivated. Other varieties of the preceding list are perhaps equally valuable with these I have specified.

There is little choice of soils for different varieties. A soil properly prepared will produce any variety in great perfection, although some will probably succeed better than others in poor soil. The difference, however, is so trifling as hardly to be worthy to be taken into account in the cultivation.

The soil best adapted to wheat culture is a strong loam, containing a small quantity of clay and lime. It should always be well drained. Wheat contains a large per centage of nitrogen and potash. Therefore a liberal quantity of barnyard and other animal manures should be applied to furnish nitrogen, and lime or ashes to supply the potash. If these substances are furnished in proper quantities, wheat will grow probably as well as when the land was in its primitive state. It is the opinion of many of our best agriculturists that a knowledge of the substances which wheat requires for its nourishment, and the best mode of compounding them, is all that is needed to produce the largest crops and those of the best quality. The carbonic acid and nitrogen in the atmosphere, upon which the plant draws so largely, are the same as they were in the remotest time. There is, therefore, no diminution of supply from this source, so that the fault must be entirely with the cultivator.

We see no objection to cultivating wheat as a standard and profitable crop on the farm annually, if an equivalent for what is drawn from the ground by the crop is supplied each year by the proper manures. The same ground could not be cultivated for a long time in succession, as is the case with the onion and some other crops. A change of soil and a rotation of crops should be adopted; and the land would be much improved by lying fallow two or three years, and by plowing in clover, which should be grown upon it. Clover contains about twice as much nitrogen as any other grass, and is doubtless one of the best and cheapest renovators of exhaustless lands.

The number of acres put in wheat for the crop of 1869 was, in round numbers, 20,000,000, the product approximating 260,000,000 bushels.

The average market prices of No. 1 spring wheat, for four years past in Chicago, were as follows: From January 1st, 1866, to January 1st, 1867, $1,64½ to $1,73½ per bushel; January 1st, 1867, to January 1st, 1868, $2,06½ to $2,21½ per bushel; January 1st, 1868, to January 1st, 1869, $1,75 3-5 to $1,78 3-5 per bushel; January 1st, 1869, to January 1st, 1870, $1.13½ to $1,15½ per bushel.

Comparative prices of prime white wheat in the New York market on the first day of May of each year from 1866 were as follows: In 1866, $2,55; 1867, $3,40; 1868, $3,10; 1869, $1,90. The prices of No. 1 spring wheat, on the first day of January of each year of the same period, were: in 1866, $1,87½; 1867, $2,58; 1868, $2,45; 1869, $1,70; 1870, $1,30.

The expense of working different soils, the quantity of manure necessary to be applied, and the price of labor vary so much in different sections of the country that we can only make an approximate estimate of the actual cost of cultivating an acre of wheat. Instances are reported in the Eastern States in which the labor and fertilizers employed have made a bushel of wheat cost $1.70 and even $1.87; and yet the yield was about 35 bushels per acre—more than twice the average yield of the country. In other instances in the West, the cost has been less than 50 cents per bushel. Wheat cannot be produced at a living profit, as a general proposition, short of $1 per bushel in the West, or less than $1.50 to $2 in the Eastern States.

There are two important characteristics which distinguish the different varieties of wheat, and upon which the quality of the flour very much depends. Namely, the opacity and the transparency of the kernel. The opaque kernel has a thicker and more woody covering than the others; and its flour is darker, and less in quantity. It is also somewhat soft when first reaped, while the other is hard and flinty. In selecting a variety for cultivation for its flour, this quality of transparency and hardness should be regarded as of primary importance. The Diehl and the Tappahannock have attained a high reputation in this respect.

Yours, very truly,
JAS. S. NEGLEY.

THE VALUE OF LEAVES.

A bushel of well pressed dry leaves, as they fall from the trees in autumn, weighs about four pounds; by further drying they part with a little more than thirty per cent. of water held in the cells of the leaf structure. A cord of absolutely dry leaves will weigh about 320 pounds, reckoning 100 bushels to the cord. In weight then a cord represents about one-twelfth of a cord of wet barn yard manure, and if they contain the same amount of fertilizing material in the same condition, would be equal in value to that amount of manure. But this is far from being the fact. The dried leaves I have found to stand relatively to the leached organic matter of manure, as 10 to 30 in ash value and taken into account, the comparative value is as 10 to 60, weight to weight. A cord of dry forest leaves, made up of the usual deciduous varieties, maple, beech, oak &c., has an actual manurial value of not over fifty cents, reckoning stable manure at eight dollars the cord. Will it pay to collect them? Certainly not for the amount of fertilizing material they contain. As litter or absorbents in the stable, leaves have some value, but much less than straw, inasmuch as they lack the reedy character of straw, and because they are far more difficultly and slowly decomposed.—Dr. Jas. R. Nicholls.

HOW TO MAKE CUTTINGS GROW.

It has been ascertained that a cutting will develop roots much sooner in moist sand than in rich soil. But the sand cannot maintain its growth for any length of time. To prepare pots for raisings they should be filled nearly to the brim with rich, garden loam—dark and porous, not clayey and soggy; then pour in one inch in depth of scouring sand—sea sand will do as well as the yellow sand. Wet this thoroughly, and place the cuttings, from which all but the three or four upper leaves have been removed, close to the side of the pot; the contact of the ware against the stem of the cutting promotes its growth. Press the wet sand firmly around the tiny stem. A great deal of your chance for success in raising slips or cuttings depends upon this. Plant as many cuttings as the pot will hold, from six to a dozen, according to the size of your pot; when they are firmly set in the sand two or three can be inserted in the middle of the pot. Set them away in a dark, warm place for twenty-four or thirty-six hours. Thus, cuttings will grow quickly in a hot bed, because the temperature is not dry. Their growth depends a great deal upon light, heat and moisture. If a bud is close at the base of a cutting it will strike the root more easily—is not so apt to decay. The roots shoot from a bud, and the lower down it is the surer your success. When the leaves drop, the plant is commencing to grow; if they wither on the stem, it has begun to decay. By following these directions no one can fail to grow all kinds of house plants. Roses and all the rarest flowers of the greenhouse are propagated in this manner.—N. E. Farmer.

RAISING BEANS.

Every farmer should have a bean crop as well as every other kind of a crop. He is sure to hit it then in some cases; and if all are treated in the best way (soil included), there will be larger return on the land occupied.

Beans will pay in some seasons remarkably—and with the good farmer, in any season, pay expenses. Early and late frosts are the chief objections to beans. To take advantage of these the soil and locality must make up for it—the crop must be driven sharply. This, a dry, rich, warm soil alone will do—but it will do it surely—not with a rank growth from manure just applied. It wants a strong healthy growth; old fertile soil is the best. The longer the manure is in the land, and the more intimately it has been mixed with it the better.

Our gravel bottoms, if rich, are excellent for beans—better than soil on our uplands, if in the same condition.

Plant early, cultivate thoroughly, with rows rather wide apart, as the sun and the air have a tendency to advance the crop, and that is what is wanted, (and to be aimed at) in the short seasons.

Often the worst difficulty is in harvesting, curing. There are many ways. Where but little is raised, sheds and other places protected from the rains may be used. But in field culture this is not practicable. In such a case, stack as lightly as possible and not too high, round a pole, and cover with straight straw tied round the pole in the centre. This is to ward off the rains. But in a very bad season it will hardly do. A better way, and one that is secure under all circumstances, is to get stout brush clipped of some of its twigs if too dense, and hang on that. Hemlock is excellent, and is used by some exclusively. This gives chance for air, and will dry if anything will. Hemlock shrubs may thus be used, the same shrubs for years. This is safe unless there is a constant rain, such as would rot anything. Each shrub with its load should be topped with straw as in the case with the stake. It will pay.—Prairie Farmer.

HOW TO GET BIG CROPS.

As a rule farmers are much more ambitious to get big prices, than big crops. There are few farms whose average production could not be doubled in a very short time by more capital and labor. It is safer to use capital in farming than in almost any other business. The credit of the plow is quite as good as that of the loom and anvil; and the capital will come, if it is called for. Use more manure, and get thirty bushels of wheat where you now get fifteen, and eighty bushels of corn, where you now get forty. The quantity of grain per acre is mainly a question of manure and tillage. A big compost heap makes a full grain bin. With high manuring the soil needs deeper stirring and a gradual bringing up of the subsoil to the surface. With the present horse harrows and cultivators, nearly all the cultivation can be done by horse-power, at a great saving of expense, and great increase of the crops.

THE SEX OF EGGS.

Is there any way of foretelling the sex of eggs? Yes. When on examining an egg by holding it between the eye and the light of the sun, or of a candle, the vivifying speck is seen exactly on the top; such an egg, it is said will produce a male bird; but if on the contrary, the speck be on one side, it will produce a female. It is said, also, that the sex of the embryo bird may be distinguished by the shape of the egg; as if the egg is elongated in shape it will contain a male, but if more globular it will contain a female. So that if these indications be true either sex may be propagated at pleasure, which is not yet known to be the case in any other class of animal creation.—Stock Grower.

SOMETHING ABOUT MILK PAILS.

Milk pails grow yellow by standing, and always before being used in the spring should be scoured with clear water and clean sand.

When used, they should be always scalded at least once a day in boiling water, and then wiped with a cloth wrung out of hot water as dry as possible. They should be laid on the side, and not bottom up, to dry; and everything that could possibly give them the least tint, or semblance of anything not perfectly clean, should be most carefully kept from them.

VALUABLE RECIPES.

To Cure Influenza.—Take Orleans molasses six ounces, sulphuric acid one drachm; mix and shake well. Dose, one teaspoonful every two or three hours, for an adult.

To Cure Constipation of the Bowels.—Abstain from tea and coffee, eat plenty of fresh vegetables, drink a glass of water immediately after rising in the morning, eat slowly and masticate the food well, avoid salt meats and fish, and take one tablespoonful of sulphur every other night upon retiring.

For Bilious Habit and Congestion of the Liver.—Avoid tea, coffee, salt fish and salt meats, and eat freely twice or three times a day of stewed rhubarb plant and asparagus.

To Obtain a Good Night's Sleep.—Sponge the entire length of the spine in hot water for ten or fifteen minutes; this will reduce the circulation, quiet the nervous system, and induce sleep better than any drug.

To Prevent the Hair from Falling Out or Turning Gray.—Once a week apply Mecca Oil, rubbed thoroughly upon the scalp with the ends of the fingers, at bedtime. Let it remain until morning, then wash the head freely in one pint of water mixed with one ounce of spirits of ammonia.

Ham Toast.—Chop some lean ham fine; put it in a pan, with a little pepper, a lump of butter, and two eggs beaten; when well warmed, spread it on hot buttered toast, and serve.

Asparagus Pickles.—Fill your jar with asparagus; make a strong brine, and pour it on hot. When you wish to use them for pickles, take them out and boil them down; then cover them with vinegar. They can also be used for sauce by boiling them tender, then butter and season them with salt and pepper.

How to Raise Bread Quick.—We have a way of making bread, which, we think, is superior to the old method. We take one pint of shorts; of sugar, salt, saleratus and ginger, each one teaspoonful; pour on boiling water, and stir until it is well wet all through, and let it stand over night; in the morning make it about the consistency of common emptyings, using warm water; keep it warm until it rises; set this away, and, when making emptyings, put in a spoonful of it, and you can have your bread baked in two hours and a half. It will keep good a long time.

Mock Custard Pie.—Take a heaping spoonful of flour, mix smooth with water or milk, pour on boiling water, proceeding as if making starch (corn starch may be used instead of flour to good advantage:) make as much of it by pouring on more or less water, as will be half enough for your pie. Add a piece of butter the size of a walnut, nearly, half a cup of sugar, an egg well beaten, after having cooled the starch by adding a half cup of cold milk or more. Flavor highly with nutmeg or lemon. This has the taste of a cream pie to a considerable degree. A little practice is needed to enable one to judge as to the quantity of water to use. When eggs and milk are scarce it is a good deal better than no custard.

Yeast for Hot Weather.—Boil two ounces of the best hops in four quarts of water for half an hour; strain it, and let the liquor cool down to a new milk warmth. Then put in a small handful of salt and half a pound of sugar (brown), beat up one pound of the best flour with some of the liquor, and mix all well together. The third day add three pounds of potatoes, boiled and mashed, and let it stand until the next day. Then strain and it is ready for use. Stir frequently while making, and keep near a fire. Before using, stir well. It will keep two or three months in a cool place. I kept this two months in a cellar, where the thermometer ranged between ninety and one hundred and four degrees. This yeast is very strong; half the usual quantity necessary for baking is sufficient.—Trade Journal.

"How is this for Lo!"

Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

In your issue of this morning (June 18th,) is an article copied from a Western newspaper, which, under the heading, "HOW IS THIS FOR LO!" professes to give an account of Sarah Wennemucca, who the writer says, "if we are not very much mistaken, we had the pleasure of seeing some years ago." A notice of the letter in Harper's Weekly seems to have called out the article in question, but I have not seen the letter in print. The enclosed is an exact copy and will, I think, interest your readers.

Miss Wennemucca, I am assured, is an educated Indian girl, who is employed by the United States as an interpretress. The handwriting of her letter to Commissioner Barker is such as would be creditable to any lady, and, as your readers will observe, its style as well as its spirit and subject matter, are in such pleasing contrast with the article of the Western editor as to render any other comment on the letter unnecessary.

Very respectfully, &c.,
FELIX R. BRUNOT.

CAMP MCDERMOT,
April 2, 1870, NEVADA.

SIR: I have learned from the commanding officer at this post that you desire full information in regard to the Indians around this place, with a view, if possible, of bettering their condition by sending them on the Truckee river reservation. All the Indians from here to Carson City belong to the Pah-utes tribe. My father, whose name is Winnemucca, is the head chief of the whole tribe, but he is now getting too old, and has not energy enough to command nor to impress on their minds the necessity of their being sent on the reservation; in fact I think he is entirely opposed to it. He, myself and the most of the Hembold and Queens river Indians were on the Truckee reservation at one time, but if we had stayed it would have been only to starve. I think that if they had received what they were entitled to from the agents that they would never have left there. So far as their knowledge of agriculture extends they are quite ignorant, as they have never had an opportunity of learning, but I think if proper pains were taken that they would willingly make the effort to maintain themselves by their own labor, providing that they could be made to believe that the products were to be their own, and for their own use and comfort. It is needless for me to enter into details as to how we were treated on the reservation while there. It is enough to say that we were confined to the reserve and had to live on what fish we might catch in the river. Is this is the kind of civilization awaiting us on the reserve? God grant that we may never be compelled to go on one, as it is more preferable to live on the mountains, and drag out our existence in our native manner.

So far as living is concerned, the Indians at all military posts get enough to eat and considerable cast-off clothing, but how long is this to continue? What is the object of the government in regard to the Indians? Is it enough that we are at peace? Remove all the Indians from the military posts and place them on reservations, such as the Truckee and Walker rivers, (as they were conducted) and it will require a greater military force stationed around to keep them within the limits than it now does to keep them in subjection. On the other hand, if the Indians have any guarantee that they can secure a permanent home on their own native soil, and that our white neighbors can be kept from encroaching on our rights, after having as reasonable share of ground allotted to us as our own and giving us the required advantages of learning, &c., I warrant that the savage, as he is called to-day, will be a law-abiding member of the community fifteen or twenty years hence.

Yours, very respectfully,
SARAH WENNEMUCCA,
Pah Ute Intepretress.

YESTERDAY'S Nashville Banner says: "During the past few nights a gang of masked ruffians have been committing a number of depredations around Bridgeport, Ala. They shot through the door of Wm. H. Clark, at Bridgeport, when there was no one in the house but three ladies, who were frightened nearly to death. They took out the father of the telegraph operator at Bridgeport, made him pull off his coat, and whipped him up and down the railroad. They came to the cabins of two laboring men on the island and frightened them away, leaving their crop to weeds. But, worst of all, these demons in human shape ravished a young lady about eight miles below Bridgeport, in the presence of her father and mother. Two of them have been arrested and identified by the young lady. They were bound over to court in the sum of $1,000. If guilty, they ought to be hung. Jackson county, the scene of these damnable outrages, is much excited. There is talk of organizing a vigilance committee to rid the country of the villains."

THE "oyster war" has broken out again between Maryland and Virginia, the authorities of the latter State having arrested a number of Maryland oystermen last week and confined them in jail at Drummondtown, Va.

THE LIVING MACHINE.

Injure the main spring of a watch and every portion of the works become disordered. The human stomach is to the human system what that elastic piece of metal is to the chronometer. It influences the action of the other organs, and controls to a certain extent, the whole living machine. The comparison may be carried farther, for as the weakness or other imperfections of the main spring is indicated on the face of the time-piece, so also is the weakness or other disorder of the stomach betrayed by the face of the invalid. The complexion is sallow or faded. The eyes are deficient in lustre and intelligence, and there is a worn, anxious expression in the whole countenance which tell as plainly as written words could do, that the great nourishing organ, whose office it is to minister to the wants of the body, and to sustain and renew all its parts, is not performing its duty. It requires renovating and regulating, and to accomplish this end Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be truly said to be the one thing needful. The broken main spring of a watch may be replaced by a new one, but the stomach can only be repaired and strengthened, and this is one of the objects of the famous vegetable restorative which for eighteen years has been waging a successful contest with dyspepsia in all climates. As a specific for indigestion it stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopea have been exhausted, without, at best, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome and palatable, yet powerful, stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia, the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland, as well as upon the stomach and bowels, the Bitters act with singular distinctness, regulating and reinvigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend.

PLANING MILL MEN
And Others,
TAKE NOTICE!

The undersigned has letters patent of the United States for the improved construction of weather-boarding, inside lining and of wainscoting for houses. The weather-boarding, by this patent improvement, being more particularly intended for vertical use, and combines great durability and beauty of appearance; and it is so constructed as to entirely avoid the use of joint strips, and to prevent water from entering the joint of the gaping or the showing of the joints by the action of the weather on the timber.

Inside lining and wainscoting by this new method are so constructed as to form perfect panels as cheaply as by the ordinary flooring boards alone; thereby preventing the showing of the joints from any cause, and leaving no refuges for bugs.

He has also purchased the patent right of what is commonly known as the "Moulded Weather-boarding."

He has disposed of the following territorial and shop rights in Allegheny county, for both patents, to wit:

To G. A. Mundorff, the right of the territory south of the river in said county.
To McQuewan & Douglass, the right for the First ward, Pittsburgh.
To Hill, Patterson & Co., shop rights for their mill, Sixth ward, Pittsburgh.
To Alex. McClure, for the borough of McKeesport.
To Parker & Paul, for First, Second, Third and Fourth wards, city of Allegheny.
To Reed Brothers, shop right at their mill in Seventh ward, city of Allegheny.
To Dunham, Saint & Co., for the boroughs of Sharpsburg and Etna; also the townships of Shaler and Indiana.

All persons are warned against infringing upon either of said patents, and those wishing to purchase will please call, or address me, at No. 75 Smithfield street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL PRIVATE DISEASES, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE ST. (near Court House) Pittsburgh.

MONEY AND COMMERCE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
MONDAY, June 20, 1870. }

The week just closed developed nothing remarkable in the financial world beyond a slight reaction in stocks, which were suppressed when the currency bill was discussed in Congress, closed however with a firm feeling on Saturday afternoon, when it was ascertained that the bank statement was less unfavorable than was presumed early in the day. Gold also made a retrograde movement from close on 115 to 112¾, and closed firm but dull at 112¼. The coin balance in the sub-treasury and also in the New York banks being but slightly reduced, and about thirty-five millions to be disbursed on or after July first, the speculation for a rise is rather dormant. The recent advance of the premium on gold being solely based on the supposed export demand for specie, higher quotations could no longer be sustained, when all at once and very unexpectedly a lively export demand for grain and flour sprang up caused by the drought in England; the exchange thus created supplied the present demand and it would take from now till the end of August to give reasonable pretence to advance the gold premium again.

Government bonds are dull but steady, always yielding with gold and reacting again with its advance. The demand for investment in the interior has nearly ceased, and next to the Government and the few speculators there are few purchasers in the market.

In local securities everything is quiet and the demand but light.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]
NEW YORK, June 20, 1870.

In Wall street the chief topic of conversation was the railroad war and speculation in Lake Shore. The Vanderbilt portion of the Lake Shore party sold out their long stock some time ago at 95 to 99. Much credence is given to the report that the differences between the trunk lines is settled and prices are to be advanced to the old standard. $845,000 in currency and $845,000 in gold are to be paid out on July 1st as interest in New York.

Governments firm and quiet. Coupons of '81, 118¼@118⅜; '62, 112⅜@112½; '64, 111⅛@111¼; '65, 111⅛@111¼; new do, 113½@113⅝; '67, 113⅞@114; '68, 113⅞@114.

State bonds for money easy at 3@5. Sterling dull at 9⅛@9⅜. Gold dull; opened at 112⅛ and closed at 112⅛@112¼. Carrying rates 2 per cent. to flat. Clearances $22,000,000.

State Bonds active in Tennessees, others were quiet and firm; Missouris 94; old Tennessees 63⅛; new do. 64⅝.

Stock market lower, especially on Central and Lake Shore. The weakness is due to the flood of rumors in the long room. At one time it was reported suits had been commenced against the New York Central for charging more than two cents per mile. Then came a report that the Lake Shore was to be enjoined by the Erie from running Central cars, and finally that there was a reduction in canal tolls.

Canton, 66⅛; Cumberland, 38; Western Union Telegraph, 35⅛; Quicksilver, 7; Mariposa, 6⅛; do. preferred, 15; Adams Express, 65; Wells and Fargo, 15⅛; American, 46⅞; United States, 45⅛; Pacific Mail, 44⅞; New York Central, 99⅛; Scrip, 94⅞; Erie, 24⅛; do. preferred, 46; Harlem, 145⅛; Reading, 107⅛; Michigan Central, 124⅛; Lake Shore, 99⅞; Illinois Central 140⅛; Pittsburgh 109⅛; Northwestern 84⅛; do. preferred, 89⅛; Rock Island, 120⅛; New Jersey Central 110; St. Paul 67⅛; do. preferred 81⅛; Wabash 58⅛; do. preferred 76; Fort Wayne, 97; Terre Haute 33; do. preferred 60; Chicago and Alton 117⅛; do. preferred 112; Ohio and Mississippi 40⅛; Boston, Hartford and Erie, 4⅛; Burlington and Quincy 158; Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus 80; St. Joseph, 120⅛; do. preferred 121⅛.

Sub-Treasury balance: Gold, $77,191,708; currency, $10,158,602; general balance, $88,988,919.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
MONDAY, June 20, 1870. }

The telegrams from Chicago to-day were not favorable for those who have been operating in wheat and flour, with an eye to big prices, and as a change has set in, as the tumble has commenced, there is no telling where it will end. That there was some cause for the advance in the first place, there is no disputing; the large purchases for export together with the threatened drouth, were sufficient to cause some excitement, and send prices up; since then, however, the copious and timely rains have pretty well silenced the complaints in regard to the drouth, and the indications now are that there will be an average crop, and the foreign demand is not so pressing. It is not likely, however, that the low prices of February and March will be touched again for some time, not at least until harvest, if then, and, after all, we do not think that it is generally desired.

ASHES—Steady but unchanged; Common Soda, 4c; Refined, 4½c; Pearls, 9½c; Pots, 7½c.

BUTTER—Is quiet and unchanged. We can report sales, in store, at 14@18 for common to prime and 20 for choice. While the arrivals are only moderate, the supply, is nevertheless, fully up to the demand.

BROOM CORN—Sales at 13@13½.

BEANS—There is scarcely any inquiry and the market is dull and prices nominal at $1,50@1,75 per bushel.

BROOMS—Store prices; Fancy, $5,50; No. 1, $4,50; No. 2, $4; No. 3, $3,50; Common, $2,50@3.

CORNMEAL—Is dull but the stock is light and prices unchanged; 95@$1 per bushel.

CEMENT—Sales of Louisville Hydraulic at $3@3¼ per bbl.

CARBON OIL—Is dull but unchanged—standard brands 23 cts in a jobbing way.

CIDER—No. 1 sweet cider is quoted at $10 per bbl.

CHEESE—Hamburg is quoted at 13; Ohio Factory at 14, and Ohio Goshen at 14½.

DRIED FRUIT—Is dull and the season will soon be over. Apples, 4½@5½; Peaches, 6@7c for quarters, and 8@9 for halves. Blackberries, 12@13; and pitted cherries, 23@25.

EGGS—There is no improvement in the demand and with slightly increased receipts, the market is dull and drooping—freshed packed cannot be quoted above 22.

FEATHERS—Quiet and unchanged, at 80@85 cts. to the trade.

FLOUR—There is a steady local demand, but the market is devoid of excitement and prices unchanged. We continue to quote western flours, in store, at $6.50 for good brands of either winter or spring.

GRAIN—We can report a sale of one car fair red wheat at $1.25—strictly prime would probably bring $1.28—offerings continue light. The Oats market is not so strong the advices from the east being rather unfavorable, though as yet there is no quotable change in prices; 53 cts. free on board cars, and 50 in first hands, buyers furnishing sacks—55 for small lots in store. Corn—sale two cars prime shelled at 88, free on cars; car may be quoted at 84@85 on wharf. Rye is quiet and nominally unchanged at 90@95.

GROCERIES—There is a fair business in Sugars, and while they are a little weak, there is no change in prices Cuba Sugar, 10¼@11; P. R., 10¾@11¾; New Orleans, 10¼@12; Molasses Sugars, 9¾@10¼; Crushed, 14½; "A" Coffee, 13¾; "B," 13; Extra C, 12¾; "C," 12¾. Coffee is firm but unchanged, at 18¼@22¾, for ordinary to choice Rio. New Orleans Molasses 80@85. Rice, 8¼ for Rangoon, and 9 for Carolina.

HAY—Is dull but unchanged with sales at $9@16, from country wagons.

HEMP—Sales of undressed Kentucky Hemp at $167.

HUSKS—Corn husks, 3@3½ cts.

LIME—Sales of Cleveland at $2.25 per bbl, and eastern at $1.75.

LARD OIL—Is dull and lower—No. 1 extra may be quoted at $1,20@1,25.

POTATOES—Are coming in more freely, but prices as yet are maintained—sales of Peach Blows, at 65 to 70 cts—on wharf or track. New Potatoes continue to decline being quoted to-day at $5 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—Firm but unchanged. Shoulders, 14; Ribbed Sides, 16¾; Short Rib Sides, 17; Clear, 18; plain Hams, 18; Sugar Cured Canvassed, 22¼. Lard, 16¾@17 in tcs, and 18 in kegs and buckets. Mess Pork $31.

PEANUTS—Dull. Tennessee, 8@9 cts.

PEARL BARLEY—No. 4, 5½c per lb; No. 3, ¼; No. 1, 6¼. Oat Meal—A & B per bbl. of 500 lbs, $10; for half bbl. 100 lbs, $5,50.

SEEDS—Flaxseed is in active demand, and crushers are taking all that offers at $2,25. Nothing doing in Clover or Timothy Seeds.

ALLEGHENY CATTLE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
MONDAY, June 20, 1870. }

CATTLE.

Following shows the number of cattle on sale, the points at which they were shipped, and the names of the shippers:

L. & J. Shamberg, Chicago	4 cars
S. Marks & Bro., Chicago	2 cars
Haas & Kraus, Chicago	3 cars
M. Varner, Chicago	1 car
Wonder & W, Cincinnati	1 car
J. Stein, Cincinnati	1 car
Greenwald & Kahn, Cincinnati	1 car
G. H. Welsh, Indianopolis	1 car
Traurman & Lobman, Marion	2 cars
Traurman & Lobman, Delaware	2 cars
Greenwald & K, Milford	3 cars
J. & S. Needy, Newark	3 cars
Emerick & Co., Newark	1 car
D. Sherrick, Canton	1 car
French & Bishop, Youngstown	1 car
Total	27
Total last week	32

Twenty-seven car loads, averaging 18 head to the car would make an aggregate of 486; add to this two hundred head driven in from adjoining counties and we have 686, and then there were 18 head that came by river, making in all 704, or about one hundred head less than last week. Notwithstanding the number was, small it was nevertheless, fully up to the demand, as there were but few outside buyers in attendance, and so far as we could learn, there were but two car loads sold to go east; the quality of the cattle as a general thing was very common, consisting mainly of green slippery stock, fresh from the pasture field, just the kind the butchers generally are afraid to buy unless they can do so very cheaply as there is always a heavy shrinkage in weight, when they come to be dressed for the stall. Prime cattle, were scarce and sold readily at last weeks prices, say 8@9 cts, and there were not enough of this kind to supply the demand; as already intimated, however, "grassers" were very sluggish, and lower than last week, and it is probable that there would be a number of this particular class left over.

The railroad war as yet has been of but little advantage to the markets here, notwithstanding the rates of freight have been very materially reduced. The rate from Chicago to New York is now only $40 per car while, from Chicago to Allegheny the rate is $50 per car, notwithstanding it is only about one half the distance, and this being the case, cattle can be sold cheaper in New York than here, owing to the low freight. And we understand, that shipments can be made direct through to New York, via, Pitt-burgh, from Chicago, at a less rate than is charged from Chicago to Pittsburgh, which is a serious matter to the trade, here, as parties making shipments from Chicago to Pittsburgh could not take advantage of the low freight, if desirous of shipping on further east.

Henry Palmer from Beaver Co. (Penna.) sold 4 bulls at 5 cts per pound.

Stakely & Bro. sold 8 No. 1 bulls at 5 cts. and 50 cts per head off.

Joshua Garwin sold 2 bulls weighing 1,925 at 4½; 1 cow at $60.

Thos. Bingham 18 head of cows, hiefers and steers, from Mercer Co., at 5@6¾.

Sam Lowensteine 20 head of common Washington Co. stock, at 6¾@7¾.

Rothchilds & Zeigler 55 head of Washington Co. stock, at 7@8 cts.

Haas & Kraus sold 35 head of good steers, from Chicago, at 7¾@8¾.

M. Varner sold 18 head from Chicago, at 7@8; 6 head for Thompson & Morris, Washington Co., at 8@8¾.

Greenwald & Kahn sold 45 head of Ohio stock, at 6¼@8¾; shipped 2 car loads east.

J. & S. Needy sold 3 car loads from Licking Co. Ohio, at 7@8¾.

Sol Shamberg 21 head steers and cows from Beaver Co., at 6¼@8.

E. Katz sold 23 head of Washington Co. steers, at 6¾@7¾.

John Cullen 16 head of Fayette Co.—unsold.

Traurman & Lobman 80 head of steers, from Ohio, at 6@8¾.

Hazlewood & Blackstock sold 15 head of Penna., and 35 from Iowa at 5¾@7¾.

S. Marks & Bro. 38 head of Chicago steers, at 7¾@9; 20 from Kentucky, at 7¾@9.

L. & J. Shamberg had 75 from Chicago, sold about 35.

Carr & McAllister sold 19 cows, at 6@6¾.

R. C. Crum sold 21 head of Washington Co. cows, steers and bulls, at 4¾@7 cts.

Johnathan Davis had 18 head from Ohio, on commission, sold at an average of 6¾ cts.

Emerick & Co. 18 head from Licking Co. Ohio, 6.25@8.50.

Holmes, Lafferty & Co. 40 head mixed stock, at 5@8 cts.

P. Hartman 22 head of mixed stock, from Ohio, at 4¾@7 cts.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

There was again an average supply of this class of sheep on sale to-day, close on to 1,500 head, but with a good local demand and some wholesale buyers in attendance, the market was much better than it was generally expected at the opening it would be; compared with last week, there is no quotable change to make in quotations. Prime to extra fat sheep sold at 5 to 6½c per pound; medium to good at $3¾ to $4¾ per head. Lambs sold all the way from $1.50 to 4 per head. At 10 o'clock, the pens were pretty well cleared which may be regarded as an indication of a pretty lively market.

R. Stouffer sold 200 head mixed sheep and lambs at $2.25@5 per head.

J. F. Alborn sold 60 sheep at $2@3 per head, and 33 lambs at $2@3.

John Beeler sold 40 sheep, at 5c per lb; 66 lambs at $2@3.50 per head.

S. A. Vandever sold 40 sheep at $2 per head to 5 cents per pound. 70 lambs at $2@4 per head.

J. Shaw sold 74 lambs, from Lawrence Co., at $1.50@3.

Adam Eckert sold 70 lambs at $2@3; 47 sheep at $3@5 per head.

Garwin & Co. sold to McMillan & Neely, 64 sheep averaging about 97 lbs, at 5c; also 29 from Flinner at 4¾; 34 from Stuffer at 4¾.

Flinner sold 18 lambs at $2@3; 76 sheep at $3@4.

Stakely & Bro sold 40 sheep at $4¾ per head; 107 lambs at $2@3.50.

Jacob Emmell sold 135 sheep, mixed lot, at $4 per head to 5c per pound.

Needy & McMillan 91 lambs sold at $1.50@3.50.

M. Humes sold 95 sheep and lambs, from Beaver Co. at $2.50 for latter and sheep at $4.75.

John Meanor sold 50 sheep at $2.50@3.75.

W. Kerr sold 45 head sheep at $2.50@4.

Robt. Kerr sold 23 sheep at $2.50@3.50.

HOGS.

Market very dull, as is always the case at this season of the year, and there is scarcely enough doing to establish prices. We quote nominally at $9.50@10 per cwt gross, in a retail way.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
MONDAY, June 20, 1870. }

The most important feature we have to report in connection with the oil market is the fact that the oil men who sold wheat "short" last week, for July, in Chicago, covered to-day, and realized a very handsome margin. While they express themselves entirely satisfied with this their maiden effort in an operation of this kind, it is not likely that they will repeat it, as it approximates too closely to gambling, and they are not inclined to encourage this kind of business. It may do very well for Chicago, but the oil men of Pittsburgh are not disposed to enter into anything of this kind—they never engage in selling oil "short" or buying "long," in "puts," or "calls," they do nothing but what is strictly legitimate.

CRUDE.

The market compared with Saturday was weak, and the tendency again seems to be downward. It is said there were sales and settlement of some 9,000 bbls spot and seller June, at 11¾@11¾, and it was also rumored that there had been a sale of Parker at 11¾.

REFINED.

Very dull—no sales reported. June quoted at 26¾; July at 26¾; and August at 27.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to recede steadily at this point with 5 feet in the channel by the Monongahela marks last evening. Weather clear and hot and seemingly settled—it is to be hoped that it will continue so for a week or more as there has been too much rain in this section of country for the crops.

The Exchange, Capt. John Rhodes new boat is due from Brownsville.

It is stated that the Camelia will lie up for a short time to overhaul and repair, for the summer campaign. She is a good summer boat.

Business was moderately active at the landing yesterday more so than it has been for some days past.

The Belle, Capt. J. P. Smith, is the independent packet for Brownsville and Geneva to-day, leaving at 5 P. M. Wm. McElroy & Co., her agents can be found at the wharf boat at almost any time during the day.

The Juniata arrived about ten o'clock on Sunday night. She was detained several hours every night by fog, and had it not been for this she would have reached here nearly a day sooner. As will be seen, she brought up a good trip.

The Argosy for Wheeling, departed as usual.

The Julia No. 2 arrived from Zanesville, with a big trip, and will return again to-day.

The Glendale departed for St. Louis yesterday afternoon with a fair trip, and by the time she reaches Cincinnati, she will doubtless have all the freight she can carry.

The Wild Duck, Capt. Anawalt, is now loading for St. Louis and is announced to depart to-morrow.

Pilot James Hamilton arrived home from Cincinnati, where he left the Kate Putnam, on Sunday.

—A mate has been found on the Ohio who can load and unload cattle without swearing. Tucker, of the Idlewild, is the distinguished boatman. A minister watched the operation through, and said to him: "You are the only mate I ever saw experience such a trial without the use of profane language." Tucker gravely assured him that he never swore.

—The Great Republic arrived at St. Louis on Friday, and the towboat Wild Cat left there the same day for the Ohio river.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the Company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund.
The greater part of the road is already completed and shows large earnings, and the balance of the work is rapidly progressing.
We unhesitatingly recommend these Bonds as the safest and best investment in the market.
U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices, only return five per cent. interest, while these pay eight and one-quarter per cent. in Gold, and we regard the security equally good.
The Company reserve the right, without notice, to advance the price.

THE DAILY GAZETTE.

HOME NEWS.

Persons leaving the city for the summer, and wishing to have the GAZETTE sent to them, will please send their addresses to the office. Price by mail, 75 cents per month.

The Washington Infantry will hold a pic-nic to-day at McFarland's grove.

The Police Committee will meet this evening, at 7½ o'clock, at the Mayor's office.

Yesterday was the warmest day this season. Soda fountains did a smashing business.

Michael O'Brien was fined three dollars by Mayor Callow yesterday for tramping over the grass in the Park.

Deputy Mayor Nichols has been appointed one of the Assistant Fire Marshals and received his commission yesterday.

Officer Gebby who attempted suicide as mentioned in yesterday's paper, was much improved last evening and it is thought he is out of danger.

Three well dressed young men endeavored to amuse themselves by a wrestling match in the Allegheny Park yesterday afternoon. They paid $3 each for their fun.

Yesterday morning a wagon loaded with straw broke down on Federal street, near Robinson. The running of the street cars was interfered with almost half an hour.

To be called a thief was not relished by Mary Kendrick, who, Saturday morning, had a warrant issued by Alderman O'Donnell for Mary Maguire for applying this epithet to her.

Disorderly.—Mrs. Stroener of East Birmingham was, it is alleged, by Ellen Ensell acting in a very disorderly manner yesterday and Justice Heisel issued a warrant for her arrest.

Sawed Off.—Yesterday morning Lawrence Noel, employed in the jointing shop of Mr. W. S. Richardson, had the thumb and fingers of his right hand sawed off while working about a circular saw.

Yesterday afternoon a carpenter employed about the Inclined Plane was crushed between two of the cars and severely but not fatally injured. Dr. McCook, of Fifth avenue, attended his injuries.

Ormsby P. R. W.—The stockholders of the Ormsby Passenger Railway Company will hold a meeting at the Town Hall, Birmingham, this evening, for the purpose of organizing and electing officers.

Infanticide.—Yesterday afternoon one of the Mayor's police on duty on Washington street found the dead body of an infant lying in a pool of water near the street. It was removed to Devore's and an inquest will be held upon it this morning.

Felonious Assault.—Angilo Brauchini made information before Aldeman Neubert charging Louis Suraceo with felonious assault and battery. He alleges that the accused attacked him with a knife and struck him on the face, inflicting a severe wound on the nose. A warrant was issued.

Malicious Mischief.—Pat Valady had a difficulty with Mrs. McSwiggen of East Birmingham yesterday, and Mrs. McSwiggen vented her wrath upon Pat by throwing stones through his windows. Justice Heisel was appealed to and issued a warrant for the enraged woman on a charge of malicious mischief.

How Was It.—Mr. Henry Girky made information before Justice Heisel yesterday, charging Matthew Steinetz with larceny by bailee. He alleges that Mrs. Girky gave the defendant a watch and three dollars, for what purpose does not appear, and that he now refuses to return the same. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Festival.—A Strawberry Festival will be held to-night in St. Mary's church lecture room at the Point for the benefit of the church. Extensive arrangement have been made by the zealous pastor, Rev. Father O'Rourke to secure the enjoyment of all who attend. Excellent music will be on hand to enliven the entertainment. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

The rumor that Johnny Robinson had been shot at the workhouse was without foundation. He is occupying a cell at that institution peacefully and serenely. He refused to work around the grounds with a ball and chain attached to his pedals, and hence is deprived of the pleasure of out-door exercise—the Superintendent having had enough of Johnny's freedom. With this exception he is as pliable as the other inmates.

Joseph R. Hunter.—It will be seen by his advertisement, elsewhere in this paper, that Mr. Joseph R. Hunter has opened an office for merchandise brokerage at 230 Liberty street (Academy of Music). With a thorough knowledge of business derived from many years' experience, and with rare talents as salesman, Mr. Hunter cannot fail to effect sales where sales are possible. We commend him and his sample room to the trade generally.

A Mistake.—In our local column yesterday there appeared a notice of the prayer meeting of the Y. M. C. A., which was held on Penn street, being very much disturbed by disorderly crowds. This, as we have been informed, was a gross mistake, there were two or three men having a discussion near by, but it did not materially interfere with the exercises held by the young gentlemen. We gladly make the correction at the request of a very reliable party.

Masonic.—There will be a meeting of the members of Masonic Lodges in this vicinity to-night, at Masonic Hall, Allegheny to make arrangements for participating in the celebration of St. John's Day, June 24th, at Brownsville, at the head of the Monongahela River. The celebration will consist of a procession, picnic and general festivities, and as members of the order hereabouts have been invited, they desire to respond with as large a delegation as possible.

The Annual Reading Contest of the Pittsburgh Female College for the Mrs. Davidson prize will take place this evening. Elocution is made a principal study in this model educational institute for young ladies, and like the musical contests the reading trials are eminently deserving attendance and generally secure large audiences. Cards of admission may be obtained at the door. There will be no reserved seats, so those who would obtain choice position should go early.

The Funeral of Mr. John Martin, who died suddenly of congestion of the lungs, on Sunday morning, took place yesterday afternoon from St. Paul's Cathedral. It was largely attended. The printers of the city turned out in large force and made a very creditable appearance. Rev. Father Devlin preached an eloquent sermon on the occasion, admonishing all to be prepared for death which comes "like a thief in the night, when least expected." The deceased was buried in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Man Run Over.—Yesterday morning about ten o'clock a picnic procession, headed by a brass band, was passing up Madison avenue, Allegheny, when the music frightened a horse attached to a wagon which was standing on the street unhitched. The result was a runaway. In his flight the animal knocked down Alois Hildebrand, an elderly gentlemen, and two of the wagon wheels passed over his breast. No bones were broken, and he was able to walk away, although it is feared he was injured internally. The horse was checked soon after this episode.

Escaped from the Penitentiary.

Daniel Aughenbaugh alias Diffenbaugher, who was serving his eighth term in the Western Penitentiary, escaped from that institution yesterday. It appears that he was outside of the wall in charge of an overseer, wheeling coal, and during the time he was thus engaged the overseer's attention was called away from him a moment, which moment he improved by climbing into the hay mow of the stable, when he quietly slipped out of his penitentiary pants and having dark woolen drawers on, slipped out at another door and escaped. A reward of $50 is offered for his recapture and return to the institution.

Runaway.

There was quite an excitement created on Market street, yesterday morning, by two horses, attached to a large wagon, running away. They ran with great speed, but the driver held tight on the reins. One of the horses soon became entangled in his harness, and this seemed to excite them more, but the driver still held them with great force, much to the astonishment of the bystanders, and when they had run a short distance up Liberty street a man rushed out with a long pole, which he placed in front of the infuriated animals. This had the effect of bringing them to a stand immediately.

Not much injury was sustained, and no person hurt.

Corner Stone Laying.

The ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new Church in the pleasant village of Mt. Pleasant, Westmoreland county, took place on last Wednesday. Rev. McMillan, formerly of Allegheny, has accepted the pastorate of the reunited congregations, and his installation was the occasion. This church is the first to build under the new regime of the Reunited Presbyterian bodies. The order was as follows:

Invocation by Rev. Barnett, of McKeesport. Formal address, Rev. McMillan. General addresses were delivered by Rev. Hare, Rev. Dr. Wylie, of Philadelphia, Rev. Noble, of Pittsburgh, and others. These addresses were interspersed with singing. Rev. Andrew, of Sewickley, closed with prayer.

During the evening a festival was held and about $200 realized.

Next day the installation services took place, Rev. Noble preaching an able sermon, Rev. Hare delivering the charge to the new pastor, and Rev. Dr. Wylie to the people. The members of the congregation had provided an ample dinner under the shade trees in front of the Church—indeed the whole arrangements on their part displayed a most commendable liberality and spirit.

We have since heard that twenty-five new members have been received. Everything seems promising in this new field of labor for one who carries with him the best wishes of many friends in these cities.

CITY COUNCILS.

Special Meeting—The Fire Department—Privileges to Railroads—Routine Business—Election of Wharf Master.

A special meeting of Select and Common Councils was held yesterday, Monday, June 20th, at two o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing a Wharf Master for the Allegheny wharf.

Select Council.

Members present—Messrs. Ahl, Ahlborn, Aiken, Armstrong, Bissel, Brown Burgwin, Coffin, Duncan, Friday, Gallaher, Gross, Hartman, Herron, House, Jones E. P., Jones I., Kebew, Kirk, Laufman, Liddell, Littell, Lloyd, Morrow, Murdoch, Murray, McCarthy, Phillips, Rafferty, Rees, Rush, Schmidt, Scully, Seeley, Shipton, Thompson, Wainwright S. J., Wainwright Z., Wilson and President McAuley.

On motion of Mr. Littell Mr. Gross was called to the chair.

Mr. Morrow presented a petition from river men, asking that the rate of speed of boats in the city limits be regulated by ordinance. Referred to Committee on Monongahela Wharf.

Mr. Coffin, a remonstrance against the construction of a sewer on Third street. Referred to Street Committee.

Mr. Rush, a resolution authorizing a drop in the sewer on the corner of Eleventh and Liberty streets. Referred to the Street Committee.

Mr. Aiken moved the reconsideration of the resolution requiring clerks of Council to furnish copy to the publishers of the "Record." Adopted.

Mr. Aiken then moved that the resolution be laid on the table. Adopted.

On motion of Mr. Burgwin it was resolved to take up the unfinished business.

Plan of lots at Shady Side presented and approved in C. C. at a previous meeting was approved.

Mr. Phillips presented a communication from the Controller asking that appropriation No. 4 be hereafter designated "Fire Commissioners," and that $20,000 be transferred from No. 16, City Property, to said appropriation No. 4, and that the balance in No. 21 be transferred to said appropriation No. 4. Accompanying the communication was a resolution authorizing the change asked for.

Mr. Kirk offered an amendment providing that not more than $600 be paid as a salary to the Secretary of the said Board.

Mr. Phillips moved to lay the amendment on the table. Lost.

The question then recurred on the amendment, which was adopted, and the resolution as amended was adopted.

Council then adjourned.

Common Council.

At fifteen minutes past two o'clock this branch was called to order by President Tomlinson, the following members answering to the call of the roll:

Messrs. Arthurs, Barker, Beckman, Beymer, Black, Booth, Bradley, Carroll, Caskey, Chalmers, Creegan, Daum, Diamond, Dietrich, Duff, Edwards, Faxon, D. L. Fleming, John Fleming, Gazzam, Hare, Jahn, Jamison, Jones, Kohne, Lang, Mattern, Mitchell, Miller, Moore, Morgan, McCandless, McKelvey, Negley, H. W. Oliver, Jr., Pender, Preston, Seibert, Sims, Sneathen, Snodgrass, Verner, Wallace and President Tomlinson.

The Clerk was then instructed to notify Select Council that the Common Council was ready to meet them in joint session for the purpose of electing a Wharfmaster for the Allegheny wharf.

BUSINESS TAKEN UP.

When the joint session had adjourned Common Council resumed business.

Mr. Morgan offered a resolution instructing the City Solicitor to enter suit against Robert A. Hill, the defaulting Wharfmaster of the Allegheny wharf. Carried.

Mr. McKelvey rose to a point of order, and contended that Council could not take up new business without a motion to suspend the rules. Ruled out of order by the chair.

Mr. McCandless presented a petition for paving Beech alley. Referred to the Street Committee.

Mr. David L. Fleming, petition for the extension of water pipe on Elm street, from Webster avenue. Referred to Committe on Water.

Mr. Beymer, petition for water pipe on Neville street. Referred to the Water Committee.

Mr. Wallace, petition for gas lamp on Twenty-fourth street. Referred to the Gas Committee.

Mr. Arthurs, a resolution authorizing renumbering of Fifth avenue. Referred to the Street Committee.

Mr. Snodgrass, a petition for a gas lamp on Washington street adjoining the drinking fountain. Refered to Water Committee.

Mr. Caskey, petition for water pipe on Beech alley. Referred to Water committee.

Mr. Caskey, resolution instructing City Engineer to report upon the practicability of opening up other streets so as to relieve the travel along Second avenue, which was obstructed by the Pittsburgh & Connellsville Railroad. Adopted.

Mr. Oliver, protest against the opening of De Villiers street. Referred to Street Committee.

Mr. Gazzam, petition for more gas lamps on Fourth avenue. Referred to Gas Committee.

THAT RIGHT OF WAY.

Mr. Duff called up the ordinance giving the Allegheny Valley Railroad right of way over certain streets to connect with the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The ordinance was put on its third reading and final passage.

Mr. McKelvy read a remonstrance against the passage of the ordinance, which has heretofore been published.

After some discussion, the ordinance was finally passed.

THE "CONNELLSVILLE DEPOT."

Mr. Oliver, Jr., called up the ordinance granting the Connellsville Railroad Company privilege to erect a depot on the Monongahela wharf.

After a lengthy discussion, the ordinance passed finally, Mr. Morgan alone voting in the negative, which was greeted with uproarious applause from the members and from the lobby.

Mr. Daum presented a petition for grading and paving Locust alley. Referred to Street Committee.

Mr. Arthurs called up the resolution relative to the vacation of the Arsenal grounds.

On motion of Mr. McKelvey, the clause in the resolution authorizing the appointment of a Committee to proceed to Washington was stricken out, when the remainder of the paper was adopted.

Mr. Carroll, an ordinance for grading and paving Try street. Referred to the Street Committee.

Mr. Arthurs, an ordinance authorizing the opening of Dallas avenue. Read three times and passed.

Also, ordinance for grading and paving of Penn avenue. Read three times and passed.

SANITARY.

Mr. Hare offered a resolution inviting the Board of Health to visit the Council chambers and report upon their condition.

In presenting the resolution, the gentleman referred to the peculiar odor which pervaded the stairway and halls leading thereto, and which were almost sufficient to knock an ordinary man down. In view of and to prevent this prospective pugilism, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

In all business not otherwise noted, C. C. concurred.

Adjourned.

Joint Session.

The members of both branches having assembled in the Common Council Chamber, President McAuley, of the Select, called the joint session to order, and stated the object of the meeting.

Mr. Kirk presented a communication in relation to the matter.

President McAuley stated that it was not customary to receive communications or allow debate in a joint session.

Mr. Kirk stated the purport of the paper, when on motion of Mr. Burgwin it was read. It contained a proposition from James Ralston, father-in-law of the ex-Wharfmaster, to pay the city $500 of Hill's indebtednes, provided he (Ralston) was allowed to have the office for the remainder of the year, and was guaranteed a re-election for the ensuing year.

Mr. Morgan moved to lay the paper on the table, but withdrew his motion, subsequently when it was accepted.

On motion of Mr. Gazzam Mr. Kirk was allowed to explain at some length. He stated the Wharfmasters had kept no books and that the solicitor said the city could not collect from his sureties more than could be shown to have been paid to him. It was probable, not more than $200 could be thus proven, and hence by accepting the proposition the city would secure $300 more. The gentlemen accordingly moved the election of Mr. Ralston by acclamation, which was almost unanimously voted down.

Nominations were then made and the election proceeded with, the following being the result of the

FIRST BALLOT.

Jas. S. Patterson	9	S. Montgomery	13
Jas. S. Fleming	6	W. G. McClure	24
W. C. Barr	16	T. J. Parkinson	17
C. Sackett	3	J. Ralston	0

Before the result was announced Mr. Morgan moved that the candidate receiving the highest number of votes be declared elected. Laid on the table.

For a few moments a Babel-like confusion reigned, each City Father seeming to have a motion to put and a plan to be pursued, which was urged with the vehemence of a Stentor.

Finally a motion to restrict the second ballot to the four highest on the list prevailed, and the roll was again called. The following is the result of the SECOND BALLOT.

Parkinson	19	Montgomery	9
McClure	42	Barr	19

Mr. Burgwin moved to confine the next ballot to the three highest on the list. Carried.

THIRD BALLOT.

The third ballot resulted in the election of Mr. McClure, he having 50 votes, a majority of six over the whole number cast.

On motion of Mr. H. W. Oliver Jr., Kinney Goff was elected Salt Inspector by acclamation to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of the former official.

Joint session then adjourned.

DEATH IN A COAL PIT.

Two Men Suffocated by Foul Air—Three Others Go to Their Rescue and Narrowly Escape.

A distressing casualty occurred yesterday evening, about five o'clock, at Keeling's coal works, in Birmingham, resulting in the death of two men and the narrow escape of three others. George Stewart, a young man named Bulford, and three others, all employed as miners in Keeling's works, having completed their labors for the day, were on their way home, and, in order to save distance, started through the tunnel, which passes through the first hill back of Birmingham. They had passed about half way through when they came in contact with a current of foul air, which nearly suffocated them. Three of the party succeeded, however, in getting out of the pit, when they discovered that their companions, Bulford and Stewart, had been left behind. They immediately started in pursuit of them and found them some distance in the pit, dead, having been suffocated with the foul air. They attempted to remove the bodies in hopes that the men might be restored to life, which attempt came near proving fatal to all of them. They had proceeded but a short distance when they were overcome with the poisonous gases which appeared to pervade the tunnel, and sank down exhausted; where they probably would have died had not some of their friends on the outside who knew of the fact of the tunnel being filled with foul air and the purpose for which the three men had entered it gone to their assistance. The three men when found were unconscious and fears are entertained for their recovery. They were removed and medical aid summoned, and were still living at a late hour last night.

Coroner Clawson will hold an inquest on the bodies of Stewart and Bulford this morning.

Hecker's Farina forms a very agreeable, light, nutritive food, a superior article for puddings and jellies, and is highly recommended by physicians for invalids and children. Sold by all grocers. T

THE LAUGHRAN MURDER.

Conclusion of the Trial—Points Submitted By Defendant's Counsel, and the Rulings of the Court Thereon—The Jury Out.

The Court of Oyer and Terminer assembled at nine o'clock yesterday morning, Judges Sterrett and Collier on the bench, when the trial of Nicholas Hoffman, for the murder of Thomas Laughran, a full report of which we have previously published, was resumed.

DEFENDANTS' POINTS.

Mr. Swartzwelder, one of the Counsel for defendant, submitted the following points to the Court, before the case was argued to the jury:

First—If the jury believe that after the first re-encounter in the bar-room, Laughran was put out and he returned by the back way through the kitchen and entry to the room again with intent to do Nicholas Hoffman some great bodily harm, and he, Hoffman, had reasonable ground for believing the danger imminent, and killed Laughran to avert it, the killing under the circumstances was excusable. Logue vs. Com., 2d Wright, 267-8. This point was affirmed by the Court, with instructions that the jury must be satisfied that the danger was imminent.

Second—If the jury believe that Laughran assailed Nicholas Hoffman in such manner as to furnish reasonable ground for apprehending a design to take his (Hoffman's) life or do him some great bodily harm, and there was reasonable ground for believing the danger imminent, though the appearances were false, and there was in fact no design to do him serious injury, nor danger that it would be done, Hoffman would be justifiable in acting upon appearances and killing Laughran, if it was necessary to avoid the apprehended danger. Ibid. This point was also affirmed.

Third—If the jury believe that Laughran, after being turned out of Stephen Hoffman's house, re-entered it against the will of Stephen, with intent to commit a felony or do him some great bodily harm, and Stephen had reasonable ground of apprehension of the same, and without retreating killed Laughran, the killing would be excusable, and so Nicholas, the brother and guest of Stephen, having a like apprehension would be excusable in killing in defense of Stephen without retreating. Wharton on Homicide, 230-233, 2nd, Archbold, 225 to 225-6, (text). This point was also affirmed.

Fourth—If the jury believe that Nicholas Hoffman struck Laughran first in the bar room brawl, and after the encounter Laughran was put out, and after some minutes returned and renewed the assault in such manner as to furnish reasonable grounds for Hoffman's apprehending a design to do him some great bodily harm or take his life, and that the danger was imminent, and he killed Laughran to avert it, the killing would be excusable self defense. Wharton on Homicide 212. The Court in offering this point said that this had already been stated to the jury to be the law.

Fifth—The jury, in considering whether Hoffman had reasonable ground of apprehension of danger to life or limb when Laughran appeared at the back door, may take into consideration the previous conduct of Laughran in the bar-room as bearing upon the reasonableness of the apprehension.

Sixth—Under the plea of "Not guilty," every element necessary to constitute the offense charged is denied, and the burden of proof is throughout upon the Commonwealth to sustain them affirmatively. (1st Bennett and Heard.) Affirmed.

Seventh—Every reasonable doubt in regard to the existence of every fact necessary to constitute the guilt of the prisoner must be removed from the minds of the jury by satisfactory proof or evidence produced in the case, before they can convict the prisoner. (1st Bennett and heard 321, and Brewster 471-2.) Affirmed.

Eighth—It follows that if the jury have a reasonable doubt as to whether the killing of Laughran was in self-defense, they must acquit. The Court refused to affirm this point, holding that it was incumbant upon the defendant to satisfy the jury that the act was committed in self-defence.

Ninth—Evidence of character is a fact from which the jury are at liberty to form the basis of a reasonable doubt upon which the prisoner may be acquitted. This point was affirmed.

Tenth—That the jury, in deciding on the credibility of the dying declarations of Laughran, may travel over the same ground which the Court has occupied in deciding upon their competency, and must submit them to more rigid tests of truth than the testimony of living witnesses subject to cross-examination. [1st Phillips on Evidenc, 242-3-4, and note 101.] Affirmed.

Mr. Swartzwelder in the course of his argument in support of the points, having occasion to cite from Judge Brewster, paid that gentleman a high compliment, and said that he considered him the leading writer on criminal law of the present day.

Col. Bayne, for the Commonwealth, submitted a number of points to the Court.

District Attorney Pearson then opened the argument to the jury. Mr. Swartzwelder followed for the defense. Mr. Moore, also for the defense, came next, and spoke for over two hours and Col. Bayne closed the argument on the part of the prosecution.

Judge Collier then delivered the charge of the Court to the jury, which was concluded at half past eight o'clock, when the jury retired and Court adjourned.

EXCESSIVE GRIEF.

Death's Ravages—A Happy Home Destroyed—A Sad Episode of Life—A Parent's Lunacy through Grief—Taken to Dixmont.

One of the saddest cases of mental abberation which we have ever known came within our knowledge yesterday. The victim was Mr. Henry Hone, proprietor of a grocery and dry goods store on the Greensburg Pike, a few miles out from the city. He was the head of a happy household—a wife and five children—and was in affluent circumstances. His character was that of a quiet, peaceable citizen, who was highly esteemed in the circle in which he moved. Besides his suburban possessions he owned considerable real estate in the city. Everything about him seemed prosperous, and life was full of happiness until about six weeks ago, when the charm was broken. Death entered the household, and two of the children successively were, within a day or two of each other, suddenly laid in the grave—the result of a malignant fever. From that time the father seemed to be a changed man, and a spirit of melancholy superceded his former genial and cheerful appearance. His depression increased, but no fears of a serious result were entertained, and it was expected that he would soon regain his former spirits.

About a week ago he engaged a brass band to serenade him—a duty which they performed for several successive evenings—being paid $25 in cash upon each occasion.

A few days ago he came to the city, purchased a turn-out for $750, paying cash, and employed a driver to conduct him through the city. Stopping at the market house, he invested in boquets, filling the carriage and spending nearly all the money he had in this way and subsequently distributed the floral offerings to the children along Penn street in the outer wards. He returned home after these adventures but exhibited no signs of violence, and no idea of his lunacy was entertained until his friends became aware of his conduct. His wife then asked him about the matter, when it became apparent from his answers and conduct that he was out of his mind. This was Sunday afternoon. Subsequently he became violent and it was found necessary to take him to Dixmont, which duty was performed by an officer on Deputy Mayor Nichols' force.

Hone is about thirty-five years of age, had always been temperate and quiet and was regarded as one of the best neighbors in the vicinity of his home. His mental aberration is without doubt the result of excessive grief at the loss of his children, which makes the case one of peculiar sadness. His physician thinks by careful treatment he may in time recover somewhat, but never entirely, as the shock has been too severe. It is one of those sorrowful episodes of life which call out the deepest pity and sympathy.

RECKLESS DRIVING.

Child Run Over—Dangerously Injured.

Yesternoon afternoon about five o'clock a child was run over on Penn street and very severely injured. The little victim is almost three years of age and a daughter of Kauffman who is now in the Penitentiary for shooting a boy some time ago. She was crossing Penn street at its intersection with Thirteenth when a car of the Citizens Passenger Railway approached in one direction and one of Gangwicht's wagons, driven by John Crahs, came from another. Several people on the street, observing the danger called to the driver, when the car was stopped. Crahs, however, paid no attention to the alarm and moved on. The child was caught between the car and wagon and finally fell beneath the wheels of the latter which passed over its leg terribly bruising them. The vehicle was loaded with beer and the driver seemed to have a quantity of the article on board. Immediately, the little girl was carried into Hoffman's saloon, where its mother was, and a physician sent for. The crowd in the meantime became so excited at the supposed recklessness of the driver that threats of hanging him were freely made. Doubtless this design would have been carried out had not officer Omara, with characteristic promptness, took the man into custody and conveyed him to the lock-up. Subsequently an information was made against him for reckless driving, upon which he will have a hearing to-day.

—Since writing the above we learn that the child was being carried across the street by its grandmother, Mrs. Hoffman, who was knocked down and slightly injured, and that the child's injuries are not so severe as at first supposed. As it is not supposed there was anything criminal in the actions of the driver, the prosecution will probably be withdrawn.

Bag Pipes and Balky Horses

Lent much to the entertainment of pedestrians passing by the GAZETTE yesterday afternoon. The Highlander with the pipes, after discoursing a few mournful tunes, was extensively remunerated by the little boys and girls standing around, and then passed on his way. But the balky horse, in spite of all the entreaties of driver and the policeman on our beat, could not be persuaded to go, but soon a lucky thought struck our next door neighbor; he seized a piece of musty bread, which was lying on the ground, and placed it in front of the horse's mouth. The poor animal seized it greedily, and with a gentle crack of the whip both horse and driver also passed on, much to the amusement of the large crowd which had collected in front of our office.

THE BURGLARS' PARADISE.

Operations of the Gentry in Allegheny—A Series of Sunday Morning Adventures—Immunity from Official Interruption—To be Continued.

Allegheny is a salubrious little town of about eighty thousand inhabitants. It is a regularly constituted corporation according to the acts of Assembly made and provided. Among other valuable possessions it rejoices in a police force numbering forty-two uniformed gentlemen, who are picturesquely distributed over an area comprising eight wards, and a considerable number of square miles. The force is organized ostensibly for the protection of life and property, and preservation of peace within the corporations limits, but unfortunately a bad selection seems to have been made in the men. So far as can be ascertained none of them are ubiquitous.

Generally it is not necessary that a policeman be possessed of this qualification. In Allegheny it is an essential matter if the duties assigned to each be properly performed. Herein lies the fault of the force. Those night prowling gentry who find profit and pleasure in the profession of the burglar, appreciate this fact, and realize accordingly that Allegheny is their paradise. Within it are palatial residences, mercantile marts, moneyed institutions, and other attractions which are so enchanting to the burglars eye. The situation is rendered doubly fortuitious by the assurance that in his meanderings, he will be pleasurably free from interruption—except an occasional episode which only gives life to his work.

While operating here the burglars take their ease. Sometimes they organize a squad and by a series of operations secure sufficient to enable them to repose for a season. This they did a short time ago, and again were these tactics pursued recently—last Sunday morning. Their last attempt was but moderately successful.

First they began with Jenkinson's tobacco store on Federal street near the Suspension bridge. The time was about two o'clock. Entrance was gained by knocking out the transom of a door in the rear. They had previously entered the cellar and attempted to get into the store that way but failed. Once inside they first relieved the money drawer of about eight dollars in currency and then selected a choice assortment of cigars, with which they quietly disappeared as they had entered—having secured over one hundred dollars in money and goods. They were not molested.

The next point of interest was a house on Lacock street, near the Pearl Mill. They had entered and were in a fair way to reap a rich harvest when the proprietor of the mansion awoke. He immediately gave chase, waiving the formality of donning his garments. He succeeded in inspiring a healthy circulation by a race as far the Passenger Depot on Federal street, but the fellows—there were four of them—escaped. He couldn't find any police, and wisely concluded to retire from the night air. It is said the watchman of the depot was terribly alarmed at the white apparition, but subsequently recovered upon ascertaining what it meant.

By comparing the time, it seems that not long afterward the gang operated upon the residence of Mr. Guckenheimer on Western avenue, near Bidwell street, securing two valuable gold watches and about eight dollars in money. Nobody knew of their visit to this house until next morning.

The compliments of the season were also paid to the residence of Mr. John Heath, corner Bidwell and Fayette streets, near to Guckenheimers. They had just entered here when Mr. Heath's son heard them and alarmed the house. They departed hastily, and secured nothing—sending back as they went their compliments in terms expressive but not very elegant.

Dawn was now fast approaching and with comendable prudence they seem to have rested from their labors. They had not, it is true, made any large "hauls" but had secured enough to suffice for one evening which was satisfactory.

The burglaries were all known to the police when they came to the office and met the victims. They had not seen the men or known of the festivities before. Of course if they had an interruption would have been the result. Their inefficiency may be set down to their lack of this quality—ubiquity. Such occurrences as these might be avoided in the future if a sufficient police force to guard the city properly were put on duty, but that force certainly could not be organized from forty-two men. These night prowling adventures may be enjoyed by their participants, but citizens generally have no fancy for them. The matter is worthy of consideration by the City Fathers.

Personal.

CONTROLLER PORTER, of Allegheny City, left last evening for a trip to the seacoast for the benefit of his health. The good wishes of his many friends accompany him.

DR. MCCANDLESS, the veteran of the Common Council, was in his seat yesterday for the first time in many months—his absence being occasioned by illness. He was cordially welcomed to the ranks again by his friends in both branches. We, with them, congratulate him on his recovery.

MAJOR A. M. BROWN drives one of the handsomest teams in the city.

FELIX R. BRUNOT, ESQ., is spoken of as a candidate for County Commissioner before the Republican Convention.

HENRY M. LONG, ESQ., is the Chairman of the Committee on Common Grounds, Allegheny City, not Geo. D. Riddle, as we noted yesterday.

J. M. KIMBALL, ESQ., the efficient Assistant Superintendent of the Erie and Pittsburgh Railroad, will remove his family to Erie about the first of July.

HON. J. K. MOORHEAD, we are reliably informed is in no way connected with the new King party movement.

REV. JOHN B. CLURK, D. D., who has been absent from the city for several months, is expected home to-day. He will preach in his church next Sabbath day at the usual hours.

CAPT. E. S. WRIGHT, the efficient Warden of the Western Penitentiary, offers fifty dollars reward in this morning's paper for one of his boarders.

CAPT. A. B. MCCLURE was yesterday elected Allegheny Wharfmaster by councils.

MR. DAVID SIMS is the only person we heard spoken of for Jury Commissioner at the coming Republican primary meeting.

Sewickley's Census

According to the investigations of Mr. Wm. H. McGill, of West Deer township, who has just completed the census of the borough of Sewickley, the population of that borough has about doubled since 1860. The following is a summary of his statement:

Number of white inhabitants	1,427
Number of colored	57
Total	1,484
Number of youth	762
Number of dwellings	280
Number of families	281

How to Look Young—Sixteen.—Don't paint or use vile Hair Restorers, but simply apply Hagan's Magnolia Balm upon your face, neck and hands, and use Lyon's Kathairon upon your hair. The Balm makes your complexion pearly, soft and natural, and you can't tell what did it. It removes freckles, tan, sallowness, ring-marks, moth-patches, etc.; and in place of a red, rustic face, you have the marble purity of an exquisite belle. It gives to middle age the bloom of perpetual youth. Add these effects to a splendid head of hair produced by the Kathairon, and a lady has done her best in the way of adornment. Brothers will have no spinster sisters when these articles are around. T-TH-S

FUN FROM PUNCH AND JUDY.

NOTES of Admiration—Billets doux.

A BAR-RELIEF—An abolished turnpike. —Punch.

WHAT'S in an aim, if you can't hit the bull's eye.—Judy.

WHY is a river the laziest thing in creation? Because it is never seen out of its bed!

TO FISHMONGERS—You don't generally get as much for salmon when it's pawned as when it's sold outright.

As good as a Feast—Jones says that an egg is quite sufficient for any meal, as it is always un oeuf (enough.)

WHY is a lamb on the left hand side of the road like a blot on the escutcheon? Because it is a baa-sinister.

THE right way of taking it: To liquor up is the usual expression, but to liquor down would seem to be the more correct one.

WHY should a European never expect generous treatment from a Japanese daimio? Because they are all two sworded (too sordid.)

WHY do they never make twelve o'clock at the right time on board a man-of-war? Because they always strike the bell eight (the bell late.)

QUERY—Will the "license to carry fire-arms" have to be taken out by those good-natured lads who carry Militiamen's rifles for them as they are returning to their billets?

IF the "Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals" were to haul up a man for cropping the ears off his dog, would they resort to the same measures were he to cut a coxcomb?

A LOCAL association: The common belief is, that the modern practice of cooking horse-flesh for the table was first introduced in France, but it seems more probable that it originated in this country at a place called Stewpony.

FROM Paris—In consideration of his sweet temper and saccharine budget, Mr. Lowe might very appropriately be called l'eau sucre! As Adolphus said when Augustus presented him with a mackintosh—"Water proof of affection!"

DULCET: Half the duty is taken off. Sugar is down in price. Sacharissa says, there is a line in Tennyson, which all consumers, whether of moist or lump, may now quote, with peculiar propriety:

"Sweet and low, sweet and low."

LOVE UP A TREE.

There was a seat in the apple tree,
  A most delightful and cozy nook;
And one afternoon about half-past three,
  Kitty sat there reading a book.
Her fair head bare, with no hat to mar,
  And her dress just showed one dainty boot;—
And he saw her as he smoked his cigar,
  And he came and stood at the ladder's foot.

Kitty half blushed, then smiled and said,
  "Won't you come up and sit here now?"
And Kitty's brother, a boy to dread,
  Saw and determined to raise a row;
So he crept softly under the tree,
  Listening to all they had to say,
Did the impish brother, and sly as could be,
  Seized the ladder and bore it way.

Then they saw him;—and she, with a frown,
  Said, "What will that awful boy do next?"
And she called him the greatest scamp in town,
  Yet I don't believe he was very much vexed,
For her lips half-smiled, though her eyes half cried,
  As she saw the position of matters now,
And he came over and sat by her side,
  Leaving his place on the opposite bough.

What could they do? They were captives there,
  Held as by an iron band;
Kitty tossed back her golden hair,
  And reflectively leaned her chin on her hand.
"If," said she, "we for help should call,
  They'd laugh to see us in such a plight,
So we'd better stay here till the shadows fall,
  Or till some one or other comes in sight."

And some one did come. It was Kitty's papa,
  Who past the tree his footsteps traced,
And saw through the leaves a lighted cigar,
  And a masculine arm round a feminine waist.
Kitty looked down and blushed at one,
  And then looked up and blushed at the other;
Said her father: "These are nice goings on!"
  Said she: "It was all the fault of my brother."

What was the end? I'll tell you that.
  Some months after, 'mid silks and lace
And ribbons and ruches, some ladies sat,
  Who was discussing the time and place
As to when—so ran the debate—
  And where a certain wedding should be:
And that impish brother was heard to state,
  "It had better come off in the apple tree."

A New Story of Lord Byron.

You may expect another explosion of mad poetry from Lord Byron. Lord Holland, who returned from Geneva a few days ago, told Mr. Gallatin that he was the bearer of a considerable cargo of verses from his lordship to Murray, the publisher—the subject not known. That you may have a higher relish for the new poem, I give you a little anecdote which is told in London. Some time ago Lord Byron's books were sold at auction, where a gentleman purchased a splendid edition of Shakspeare. When it was sent home a volume was missing. After several fruitless inquiries of the auctioneer, the purchaser went to Byron. "What play was in the volume?" asked he. "I think Othello." "Ah! I remember, I was reading that when Lady Byron did something to vex me. I threw the book at her head, and she carried it out of the room. Inquire of some of her people and you will get your book.—An old Letter from Gulian C. Verplank.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ REPUBLICAN

County Conventions.

The Republican Voters of Allegheny county are requested to meet at the usual places for holding primary elections in the several Wards, Boroughs and Townships, on Saturday, August 27, 1870,

and elect delegates from each Election District to each of the following Conventions, as follows:

TWO DELEGATES from each Election District to the

COUNTY CONVENTION

for the purpose of nominating candidates for
PROTHONOTARY,
COUNTY COMMISSIONER,
CORONER,
JURY COMMISSIONER,
DIRECTOR OF THE POOR.

TWO OTHER DELEGATES from each Election District to the Congressional-Legislative Convention,

for the purpose of nominating ONE CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS in the 22d Congressional District, ONE CANDIDATE from that portion of Allegheny county (to-wit: North and West of the Allegheny and Ohio Rivers) which is embraced in the 23d Congressional District.

ONE CANDIDATE FOR STATE SENATE.
SIX CANDIDATES FOR ASSEMBLY.

These Conventions will meet in the City of Pittsburgh, at the COURT HOUSE, on TUESDAY, August 30th, 1870, at the following times, as follows, viz.:

COUNTY CONVENTION will meet in the Common Pleas Court Room, at 11 o'clock A. M.

The delegates to the CONGRESSIONAL-LEGISLATIVE CONVENTION from the 22d Congressional District will meet at 10 o'clock A. M. in the new District Court Room for the purpose of nominating a CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS from said District.

The Delegates from that portion of Allegheny county which is in the 23d Congressional District, will meet at 10 o'clock A. M. in the old District Court Room for the purpose of nominating a CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS, and electing THREE CONFEREES to meet the Conferees of Armstrong and Butler Counties.

And at 11 o'clock A. M., or as soon thereafter as both the Congressional Conventions above designated shall have concluded their respective duties as such, they will meet in the old District Court Room for the purpose of nominating

ONE CANDIDATE FOR STATE SENATE, and SIX CANDIDATES FOR ASSEMBLY.

The election of Delegates will be held between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock P. M. on SATURDAY, August 27th, 1870, and will be held as far as practicable by the Republican members of the election boards in the different districts, and in those districts where the election officers are a minority of the regular board the Republican voters are authorized to elect enough additional officers to complete the board.

The voting in the cities and boroughs shall in all cases be by ballot, and in the townships by marking.

The President of the County Convention, and of the Congressional-Legislative Convention, will, unless both Conventions order otherwise and concur in so doing, appoint a Committee of three, the two Committees thus appointed to meet together as soon as practicable after the adjournment of the Convention to appoint a County Committee for the ensuing year.

At the request of many Republicans, and with a view of ascertaining the sentiment of the people upon the question of the adoption in this county by the Republican party of what is known as the Crawford County system of holding primary elections and making nominations, &c., each voter is requested, in designating his choice for delegates to the respective Conventions, to instruct them to vote aye or nay in the said Conventions on a proposition there to be submitted of adoption by the party of that system, a full and explicit explanation of which will be hereafter published by this Committee in the Republican press of the City of Pittsburgh.

AUCTION.

FREE RAILROAD EXCURSION.

GREAT AUCTION SALE OF

Over 300 City Lots,

AT McFARLAND'S GROVE, ON

Fifth Avenue, in 20th Ward,

MONDAY AFTERNOON,

JUNE 20th,

At 2 O'Clock, on the Premises.

It is needless to speak of the well-known and beautiful situation of McFarland's Grove, with its elegant surroundings of magnificent mansions and grounds.

These lots are handsomely situated between the Oakland Passenger Railway and Pennsylvania Central Railroad, within three minutes' walk of Roup's Station. The lots are from 20 to 24 feet front on wide streets, and from 100 to 138 feet in depth. Also, lots with wide frontages on Fifth avenue, extending 220 feet in depth, subject to the future opening of an alley.

Roup's Station is only five minutes' ride from the Union Depot, making these lots actually nearer to business than the time required to walk a few squares. Beside almost hourly Accommodation Trains at Roup's Station, the Oakland Passenger Cars constantly pass on Fifth avenue.

TERMS—One-third cash; balance in one and two years, with interest. $10 to be paid on each lot, when sold, as part of cash payment.

A Free Excursion Train

Will leave the Union Depot at half-past 1 o'clock P. M., precisely, on day of sale, and convey grown persons to and from the sale free of charge. No Tickets required.

A. McILWAINE,
je16 AUCTIONEER.
